City Vows To Continue Bridge Fight

By SCOTT JACKSON

Mayor Thomas Koch said Quincy will continue to fight Boston's efforts to rebuild the Long Island Bridge after the plan received approval from a state environmental agency.

Koch on Tuesday said Quincy would look to appeal that decision and make its case against the bridge as the proposal is reviewed by other regulatory agencies.

"We will be putting every fight up we can along the way," Koch said in a phone interview.

Boston Mayor Marty Walsh unveiled plans to rebuild the bridge — a three-year project with an estimated cost of $92 million — in January 2018. The bridge would connect Moon Island to Long Island, allowing Boston to open a recovery

City To Hire Tourism Director

By SCOTT JACKSON

City councillors approved the creation of a new tourism office as they continued their review of Mayor Thomas Koch's proposed $324.7 million general fund budget for the fiscal year that begins July 1.

The finance committee met June 5 for the last of its three hearings to review Koch's spending plan for fiscal year 2020, which begins July 1. Councillors reviewed the budgets for the Quincy Public Schools, the Department of Public Works, the Thomas Crane

Public Library and the Health Department during the meeting, as well as their own budget and several others falling under the mayor's office.

The sewer and water enterprise fund budgets, which are separate from the general fund, were also approved.

In previous years, the city had allocated a portion of hotel tax receipts — part of which must be used for tourism purposes by law — to the Quincy Chamber of Commerce for its Discover Quincy program.

Chris Walker, Koch's chief of staff, said the mayor was seeking to put the tourism office under city control with Discover Quincy director Margaret Laforest set to leave her position.

"Based upon that knowledge he has had multiple discussions with the board of the Quincy Chamber. The Chamber is in support of this measure," Walker said. "The timing makes sense because of the departure of the current tourism director. It comes at a time when we are getting a little more mature when it comes to tourism."

"Ultimately, the mayor believes this provides...a measure of accountability because it is with the city now and not a third-party appropriation," Walker added.

The tourism office's $176,000 budget includes a director's position with a salary of $91,000, plus a separate $15,000 line item for salary/wage PERM. It also includes a $40,000 contractual line item and

Quincy Flag Day Parade, Celebration Saturday

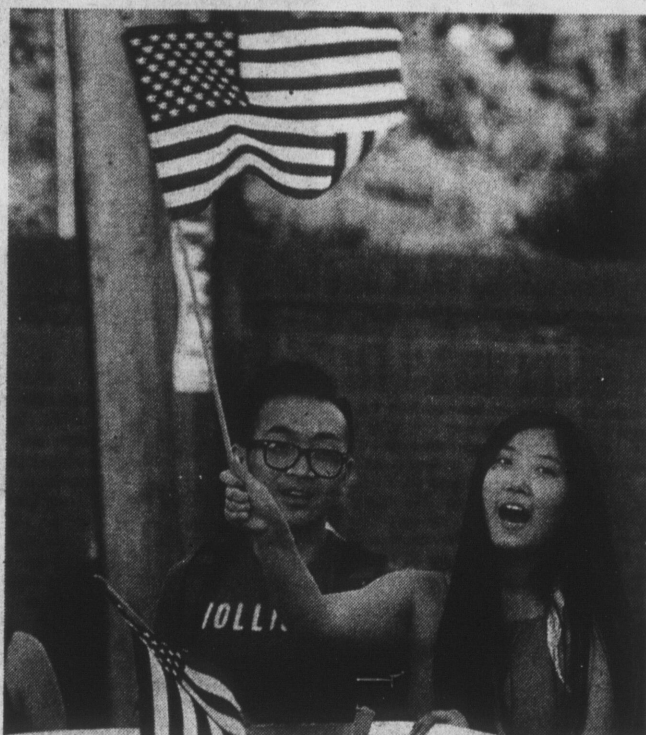

Major Gen. Francis McGinn Grand Marshal • Ray Theberge Richard Koch Award Recipient

Major General Francis M. McGinn will be honored as grand marshal leading the Quincy Flag Day Parade and Celebration Saturday, June 15th.

The 1.2 mile-parade steps off at 7 p.m. at the intersection of Coddington and Hancock Streets and proceeds north on Hancock Street to Merrymount Parkway, disbanding at Pagaent Field. The parade features bands, floats and specialty units.

The celebration portion of the evening will be held at Pagaent Field, following the parade. The American flag will be raised at 8 p.m. followed by a patriotic medley of songs and the presentation of awards to the grand marshall and the Richard J. Koch Youth Service Award recipient. A 30-minute fireworks display over Blacks Creek, sponsored by Quirk Auto Dealerships, will begin at 9 p.m.

This year's grand marshal is Quincy native Major General Francis M. McGinn, the Mobilization Assistant to the Director, Defense Intelligence Agency

QUINCY'S 68TH ANNUAL FLAG Day Parade will be held Saturday, June 15 beginning at 7 p.m. Shown here are representatives from local organizations (Quincy Asian Resources, Inc.) and youth (Quincy Track Club) marching in last year's parade.

in Washington D.C. His awards and decorations include the Legion of Merit, Bronze Star and Meritorious Service Medal (4OLC). He is a career Army Signal Officer with numerous assignments throughout the Massachusetts National Guard. He is also a retired Massachusetts State Police major among other notable assignments.

Carrying on the tradition of the Koch Club, the Quincy Flag Day parade is the longest-running parade of its kind in the nation. Richard J. Koch, who started the Koch Club in 1948, founded the first flag day parade in 1952.

The Richard J. Koch Youth Service Award recognizes a leader working with and impacting the lives of the youth of our City. This year's recipient is Ray Theberge. Theberge has been a dedicated and exceptional scout leader since 2001. He began as a Cub Scout Pack 42 leader for boys 7-11 years of age then a Boy Scout troop leader for Troop 42, ages 11-18. He also began the co-educational Venturing Crew 42 for ages 14-21. He is now the Chairman of the Board for Group 42 overseeing each of these groups.

"Flag Day is one of Quincy's most celebrated traditions where our community comes together," said Mayor Thomas P. Koch. "This year we honor Quincy native Major General McGinn who's life of service honors our city and our country and we honor Ray Theberge for his devoted service to the youth across our City."

Street closings at the start of the parade route will begin at approximately 5:45 p.m. on Coddington St. and the surrounding streets. Hancock St. between Granite St. and Standish Ave. will close at approximately 6:45 p.m.

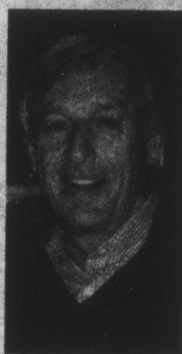

The American Flag to be raised at Pagaent Field on Saturday is the 50' x 80' one used during last year's Hancock Adams Common Dedication ceremonies.

Quincy Access TV will broadcast the Flag Day Parade live at 7:15 p.m. on Channel 8.

GOOD AS GOLD

While rose gold has taken center stage over the past few years, yellow gold was the standard choice for engagement rings during the mid-1900s. Now, yellow gold is making a comeback. Traditionalists should delight in the fact that, historically, yellow gold has been the most popular metal used for wedding and engagement bands, making it appropriate for vintage-style settings. It is brighter than the more understated rose gold. It also stands out on nearly every skin tone and is the most hypoallergenic of all the three gold colors. For those with more contemporary tastes, yellow gold (the most malleable and easiest for jewelry designers to manipulate) can be incorporated into bold, eye-popping designs.

Search no farther than Rogers Jewelry to find exquisite gold jewelry of outstanding design. Whether you prefer rose gold with its soft, shimmering, flattering beauty or yellow gold with a bright mirror finish, there is really nothing quite like the feeling you get when you wear gold jewelry. We hope you'll take the time from your daily routine to pamper yourself and browse among our selections of gold necklaces, chains, bracelets, earrings, and rings. If quality is for you, then see us at 1402 Hancock St. in Quincy Center, because that's all we carry. PH: 617-773-3636.

Should you go back to a 30-year mortgage?

People are thinking about mortgages differently. Right now we're seeing borrowers who went with shorter terms going back to a 30-year loan. Some are tapping their equity for home improvements, college tuition or to consolidate other debt at a locked-in guaranteed low rate. Others just want a more comfortable monthly payment, less stress and more cash flow. It works because mortgage rates are still so low. And If you want, you can always pay the new 30-year loan off more aggressively, but you don't have to. Would a new 30-year mortgage make sense for you? Come see us or call VP/Retail Lending Angela Blanchard at 617-471-0750 or apply online at colonialfed.com. Colonial Federal, a bank with ideas.

Fond Memories Of South Jr. - Sterling Middle School

By CHRIS PRENDIVILLE

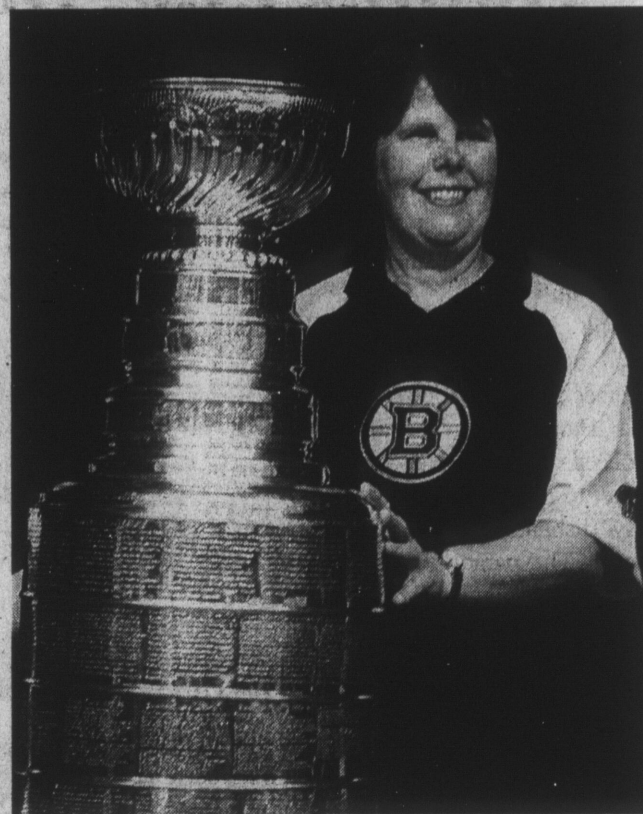

On Friday, May 31st, Sterling Middle School held its last day of school. Sterling or South Junior High as it was formerly named has been bringing teens and pre-teens through some of the toughest years of development since 1927, that's 92 years! Thousands of West Quincy residents from age 10-100 have walked those halls and used those yellow lockers.

As I walked those hallways and stairs for my last time, I remembered so many students and fellow teachers. Eddie Pettinelli, a sixth grade math teacher who passed away in 2000 as well as Bob McGillicuddy who we lost in 2018 and Kristine Lally last year. They would have loved the new building with all its wonderful new tech and teaching areas!

How many concerts, plays and sporting events have been held in this great old building- hundreds over the years I'm sure. Students who considered themselves shy, suddenly finding the self confidence to be a lead in a play, speak at a Veterans Day ceremony, sing in a talent show or try a new sport and find out he/she is really good at it.

Leaders were created at South Junior and Sterling Middle School. More than several alumni that I had the pleasure of teaching are leaders in our community (Noel DiBona), our police force (Gregg Hartnett) and more teachers and veterans than I can list here are all products of this great school. The staff over the years has been outstanding, dealing with not only the subject that they are responsible to teach but also the support that so many students at this age need and deserve. These teachers listened to the heartbreak of a first breakup, arguments between friends, and the excitement when a child made a team, got an A or got asked to the semi formal! Students felt at home at this school as was evidenced by so many that came back to visit and catch up.

Sterling as a building did its duty for 92 years in keeping staff and children warm (thank you George DePaulo for getting the old boiler stoked up in the winter early) and safe. The building will be gone in a month but the memories and love that so many South West Quincy residents share for that school will take root in the new, beautiful South-West Middle School. The name and the design may have changed, but the core values of love and respect for all will not change and the school will continue to produce awe-some students who will go on to do great things for Quincy.

The memories will live on in our hearts and minds, thank you Sterling Middle School for all you have done for so many!

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS POSTCARD was published in 1940 by the South Shore Buick Company to mark the opening of their new building on Adams Street in Quincy Center. Sleek looking new Buicks can be seen in the new showroom windows. Founded in 1923, the company was in business for 86 years when it closed in February, 2009. A message on the back of the postcard claims that Buick outsold all other automobiles except the three lowest priced cars at the time. They were Chevrolet, Ford and Plymouth. When South Shore Buick closed 10 years ago, Buick's market share had slipped to 1% of U.S. auto sales. The property at 50 Adams St. was later sold and today is a Planet Fitness.

Your Midyear Financial Tune-Up

By DOLLY DI PESA

Did you start the beginning of the year by making smart resolutions to get your finances in order in the coming months? Did tax season leave you with a surprise bill from the IRS? This time of year is a good time to check in on your finances and make some changes now that will help in the months and years to come. Here are some tips to size up your financial situation.

Do Away with Debt

The average U.S. household credit card debt almost $7,000. That's a sobering figure, especially when you consider the amount of interest households must pay each month on their outstanding balances. Reducing the balance on your credit card should move to the top of your agenda for the remainder of 2019. If you're only paying the minimum balance, your first step should be to make the largest payments you can so that you can erase your balance sooner, and free yourself from costly monthly interest charges.

Make sure to target the account with the highest interest first. Here's an added incentive: Lowering your outstanding debt can help raise your credit score, which means you may reduce the interest rate you're charged on future borrowings.

Think About the Future

Saving for retirement is a common consumer goal, but it's also one that's easy to put off. The earlier you begin saving for the future, the more your money can grow over time. Many employers help out by offering automatic retirement savings plans that deduct an amount you determine from each of your paychecks, like a 401k. If your employer also matches your contributions, then make it a high priority to set aside as much as possible to take advantage of the full match. If you don't, you're leaving retirement money on the table.

Additionally, tax reform made significant changes to the tax code, leaving some surprised by their return this year. If you ended up owing money to the IRS, saving for retirement might help to reduce what you owe next year. Contributions you make into a 401k reduce your adjusted gross income, lowering your overall tax liability—a win-win!

Get Back on Budget

Did you resolve to begin better budgeting in January, but never quite got started? It's not too late to get back on track. Your budget should track how much you make and how you spend your money. Online budget tools like Mint.com provide valuable information on how you use your hard-earned dollars. If you're surprised at how much you spend on takeout or entertainment, that's a great place to start cutting back.

Your budget should also include a set amount for savings. Most CPAs suggest having three to six months of expenses saved in case of an emergency. Even if it's only a small amount at first, it's smart to work on building an emergency fund or a nest egg for a future home purchase or other long-term goal.

Update Your Will

Speaking of emergencies, a midyear financial review is a good time to update or create your will. This is especially important if you have kids, since you'll want to name an executor and a preferred guardian who can ensure their needs are met in case of your death.

Take a look at your life, health and disability insurance, as well, to confirm that they are up to date and reflect your current situation and needs.

Turn to Your CPA

Midyear is a good time to check in with your CPA to make sure you are doing the right tax planning, especially if the results of your tax return were less than exciting. There are a number of ways to reduce your tax liability while maintaining your lifestyle, so ask an expert for help.

Dolly Di Pesa, CPA, is the managing partner at Di Pesa & Company, CPAs in Quincy, and a member of the Mass. Society of CPAs. She resides in Quincy.

Pops Concert, Parade Celebrate Flag Day

A two-day "Pre-Summerfest," sponsored by the Koch Club, began Friday, June 13 with an outdoor Pops concert and concluded Saturday, June 14 with the 27th annual Koch Club Flag Day Parade and Celebration.

The weekend events were planned to commemorate the 350th anniversary of the founding of Mount Wollaston and the 200th anniversary of the nation's birth.

Major General George S. Patton, commander of the Army Readiness Region One at Fort Devens, was the grand marshal in the Flag Day Parade.

Patton was the youngest of three children of World War II General George S. Patton, "old blood and guts," as he was known to the men he commanded.

The parade will conclude at Veterans Memorial Stadium with a flag raising ceremony and brief program to end the festivities.

Great Progress But LGBTQ Community Still Not Equal

June 29, 2019 will be the 50th anniversary of the Stonewall riots in NYC.

The riots occurred after a police raid of the Stonewall Inn and their attempt to arrest the LGBTQ patrons. Drag queens played a significant role in the incident by fighting back. The actions at Stonewall that night and the following night were not an attempt to slowly inch towards equal treatment. Instead, they were the actions of a repressed, maligned, physically and mentally attacked group that finally said "enough."

Members of LGBTQ community were diverse yet united in their solidarity. Fifty years have passed and, while we have made great progress, we are still not equal. May the energy of the riots inspire all LGBTQ and all to never apologize for being who he, she, ze, they are.

Change often does not occur when one is worried about what others think or how they may react to us being ourselves. Change occurs when we are proud of ourselves, period. Pride. May each of us have pride in ourselves and our community.

We are such a varied group that one name has never been agreed upon by all. Whether we like LGBT, LGBTQ, Queer, MOGAI, gender fluid or another; we are all brothers and sisters. We must uplift and support each and every one of us. This is why we have Pride!

Keohane Funeral Home Hosts Plant.Grow.Share Workshop At Kennedy Senior Center

Keohane Funeral Home recently hosted a Plant.Grow.Share. program workshop at the Kennedy Senior Center, 440 East Squantum St., North Quincy.

The Plant.Grow.Share. initiative is a collaborative effort between Keohane Funeral Home, Interfaith Social Services, and Weymouth Food Pantry to encourage backyard growers to donate produce to local food pantry clients. This community outreach program boasts educational workshops, a free seedlings giveaway week, and many opportunities for the community to come together to help our neighbors.

During the approximately one-hour long workshop led by local organic farmer Jon Belber of Holly Hill Farm in Cohasset, learned how to build their own tomato container gardens. Attendees received an organic tomato seedling from Holly Hill Farm, donated by Keohane Funeral Home. Bucket containers were donated by Curry Ace Hardware in Quincy.

Vegetable gardens will also be planted at Keohane Funeral Home's locations in Quincy and South Weymouth. Interfaith Social Services will have a garden next to their office at 105 Adams Street in Quincy.

This year, the Weymouth Food Pantry will have a garden as well. "We have launched our own Food Pantry Garden in partnership with South Shore Bank and Old South Union Church, which was inspired by the Plant.Grow.Share. program. We are very excited about it—this will be our first growing season," said Executive Director Pamela Denholm.

Produce donations are very important to local food pantries. The Plant.Grow.Share. program encourages people to develop their gardening skills through free workshops and free seedling giveaways but for those looking to get involved without all the dirt, there are options: Store-bought produce donations, volunteering for your local food pantry, or monetary donations, will go a long way to helping those who need it.

"Sometimes people think a small food donation is not enough, but if ten people make that same small donation, we will have quite a bit to share! Every donation is a meaningful part of bringing our community together to help feed those in need," explains, Pam Denholm, executive director of Weymouth Food Pantry.

Donations of fresh produce from your garden or supermarket for Interfaith Social Services can be dropped off at 105 Adams St. in Quincy from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., Monday to Friday, and until 7 p.m. on Tuesdays.

Donations of fresh produce for the Weymouth Food Pantry are accepted at all three Pop Up Pantry locations or at their warehouse:

- Tuesdays, 9:30 to 11 a.m. at The First Church at 17 Church St., Weymouth

- Thursdays, 9:30 to 11 a.m. at Crossroads Worship Center at 241 Broad St., Weymouth

- Saturdays, 9:30 to 11 a.m. at Old South Union Church at 25 Columbian St., South Weymouth

- Tuesday to Friday, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at 40B Reservoir Park Dr., Rockland

Monetary donations can be made through interfaith Social Services website <http://interfaithsocialservices.org/donate/> and Weymouth Food Pantry's website <https://www.weymouthfoodpantry.org/donation-page>. Volunteer opportunities can also be found on the food pantries' respective websites.

Armando Peduzzi Celebrates 95th Birthday With Family, Friends

Armando Peduzzi of Quincy recently celebrated this 95th birthday with a party attended by family and friends June 2nd. The day was proclaimed "Armando Peduzzi Day" in Quincy by Mayor Thomas Koch.

Armando was born June 4, 1924 and raised in a small town on Lake Como in northern Italy. He arrived in the United States in 1947 with 75 cents in his pocket. He worked in New York City as a chef at the New Yorker Hotel.

A few years later on he moved to Quincy where he met the love of his life, Celia. They got married on July 4, 1953 at St John the Baptist Church in Quincy and together had five daughters. They traveled often to Italy during the summer time to visit family. Armando is most proud of his family and being with his seven grandchildren and one great-granddaughter.

Armando was educated in Italy with a college degree in art and continues to paint today. He was an athlete and a cyclist riding over 100 miles a week and completing many bike challenges. In addition to being a proud chef, Armando worked as a union worker for many years at Boston Gear Works and he was a licensed hairdresser.

Armando ended his final working years at Milton's clothing store in the shipping department and was a model playing the role of the "father of the bride" for fashion shows. After retiring, Armando and Celia spent eight wonderful years in living in West Palm Beach.

Armando lost his wife six years ago and now lives at Hancock Park Assisted Living where he enjoys his view from his window of St. John's Church, where it all started.

ARMANDO PEDUZZI and family celebrate his 95th birthday June 2 at Hancock Park Assisted Living.

1686 Quincy Homestead Open For Tours Saturday

The 1686 Quincy Homestead, 34 Butler Rd., Quincy, will be open for tours Saturday, June 15 from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

The last tour will start at 1 p.m. The historic site will close early to prepare for the City of Quincy's Flag Day Parade also set for Saturday.

The Colonial Dames of Massachusetts, and volunteers who attend to the preservation of and provide tours at the Quincy Homestead, are also active participants in other Quincy community events. This Saturday's Flag Day Parade is an example.

Prior to the Revolution of 1776, a variety of flags was flown by the Colonists. During the time the Quincy family lived in the Homestead, they would have been familiar with the St. Georges Cross flag. This was the flag carried to the New World by most of the early English explorers. It can be traced back to 1277 in Britain. The Kings Colors was seen across the Colonies by British colonial troops around 1743 when the Quincy family lived in the Quincy house. Later, when revolution was brewing, the Continental Colors was flown. It has been referred to as the first national flag.

On June 14, 1777, the Second Continental Congress passed the Flag Resolution which stated: "Resolved, That the flag of the thirteen United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation." The American flag is the national flag of the United States and its design has changed with the growing nation. The current flag is its 27th design since 1777.

The City of Quincy has celebrated Flag Day on the Saturday closest to the national observation day of June 14. This year on Saturday, June 15, the City will celebrate the 68th Annual Quincy Flag Day Ceremony. The celebration consists of a parade, the flag raising of an impressive 50-foot by 80-foot version of Old Glory, and other festivities that are capped off by a dazzling 30 minute fireworks display over Blacks Creek.

The Quincy Homestead Colonial Dames and volunteers will hold tours of the Homestead on Saturday, June 15 from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. before participating in the city's event this year.

Why not start the celebration of the national flag by visiting the Colonial historic home, Quincy Homestead. You will be impressed with the story of the Colonial family and their contributions to the City of Quincy.

Located at 34 Butler Road on the corner of Hancock Street, the Homestead is easily to find - it is just south of Furnace Brook parkway and the Armory. You will be welcomed to the Homestead by an all-volunteer staff eager to share the history of Quincy Homestead.

Historic home tours will be held throughout the summer on the following Saturdays from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tours take about 45 minutes - the last tour begins at 2 p.m.

Soon The Light Will Be Perfect By Dave Patterson - Book Review

By BETH VACCA
'The Fine Print'

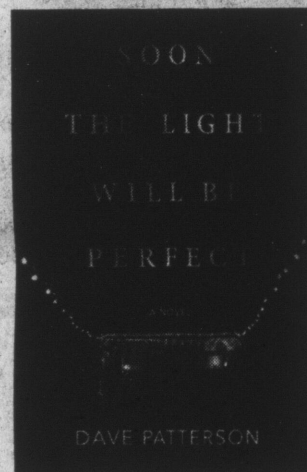

My boys recently watched the movie "Crocodile Dundee." A comedy about a man from the Australian outback who comes to New York City. With about 10 minutes left in the movie one of my boys asked "When is something supposed to happen?"

In this day and age it seems like the motto is "go big or go home." He wanted to know when the action was going to take place. Is there a crocodile in the sewer system? Will this man be held as a prisoner between two warring countries?

Although not exactly the case in "Crocodile Dundee" (he did have mad survival skills) it made me a little sad to think that a simple story consisting of a snapshot into someone else's life was not in itself worthy. To watch the struggle of daily life and relate on a basic level. To look into someone's everyday life not only as entertainment or escape, but as a way to evaluate our own decisions and circumstances. A chance to reflect.

"Soon The Light Will Be Perfect," a novel by Dave Patterson, is that simple story. The summer of a pre-teen boy growing up in a small, lower income town in Vermont during (I'm guessing) Desert Storm.

Life is complicated. With strict Catholic parents we see him struggling with his own faith. His feelings and desires as a 12-year-old boy are at war with the lessons he has been taught in the Catholic Church. And to make matters worse the parish priest has left his congregation under suspicious circumstances and he is not able to confess his sins.

Having just climbed a peg up on the social ladder by moving out of the trailer park and into an actual house his father is in constant fear of losing his job. His dad is a good father and husband. This, however, makes our main character question issues of life that seem juxtaposed. His father is asked to do something unethical at work and refuses. Our character cannot reconcile the refusal to do the unethical act and the possibility of having to return to the trailer park against the fact that his father's plant produces tanks that are killing people in the war. And how is that different from the abortion clinics his father protests?

His mother is diagnosed with cancer and is being made even more sick from the chemotherapy. Our character is scared by her sickness. He is sad his mother is suffering, but he also mourns for how his life has changed. That she is able to make his favorite lasagna for a local family in need but does not have the energy to make it for her own family. Isn't their family in just as much need?

With all the struggles we watch this family endure we are shown their love for one another as well as their love for others. We see how life happens. How some circumstances are beyond our control while others are a matter of decisions we make. How having faith is comforting and reassuring but also a discipline. We are shown that regardless of social standing we are the decisions we make. And those decisions not only make us, but will, for better or worse, affect those who love us.

There is a song by Everlast that states "you know where it ends ... it usually depends on where you start ...". While reading this book I found myself reflecting on this verse. By the end of the book, however, I was thinking exactly the opposite. I saw hope. The ability to look forward. The title of this book, "Soon the Light Will Be Perfect," implies the childlike perspective of thinking there will come a time in our lives when all things will be as they should. As adults we know this is unattainable here on earth; however, it reminds us we should run the race with perseverance and integrity all while keeping our eyes on the finish.

Reading gives us the opportunity to reflect on our own lives. To make decisions on who we want to be. So pick up a book and ... don't forget to read The Fine Print.

Broccoli Parmesan

By MARIE

Most of us who like broccoli have probably prepared it in many ways. Today's recipe is for broccoli parmesan and a delicious way to prepare this versatile vegetable.

RECIPE AND DIRECTIONS:

- 1 bunch fresh broccoli
- 2 tablespoons of vegetable oil
- 2 tablespoons of minced onion
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- ½ teaspoon of yellow mustard
- ½ cup grated Parmesan Cheese
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1 teaspoon of "Better than Bullion" or one chicken bouillon cube
- 2 ½ cups milk
- 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan

Cheese (for topping)
1 teaspoon paprika

Cook broccoli until tender. Drain. Arrange broccoli in a shallow greased baking dish. In hot oil, sauté the onion over low heat until tender.

Blend in seasonings and flour. Add bouillon cube and milk. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Add the cheese and stir well, until melted.

Pour sauce over broccoli. Sprinkle with paprika and additional Parmesan cheese. Bake in a 375-degree oven for 20 to 25 minutes or until browned.

Vegetarian Buffalo Cauliflower

By SUSIE

My kids just love buffalo chicken. I try to always incorporate vegetarian options to increase their intake.

This recipe for gluten-free vegetarian buffalo cauliflower has been a huge hit. Very easy too! I like to get the organic buffalo sauce from my local health store but you can just use regular hot sauce, just use a bit less. It is definitely better with the buffalo sauce though.

Hope you like this! It makes a great appetizer as well as a great addition to a meal.

GLUTEN FREE VEGETARIAN BUFFALO CAULIFLOWER

- 1 cup of nut milk (unsweetened)
- 1 cup of gluten free flour (I like oat flour)
- 1 tsp garlic powder, 1 tsp onion powder

- 1 head of cauliflower, chopped into pieces or a bag of cauliflower florets
- 1 tablespoon of honey
- Dash of sea salt
- 1 cup buffalo sauce with 2 tablespoons melted butter

Preheat the oven to 450°F. (make sure you get it to proper temp)

Combine the milk, honey, flour, and garlic and onion powders, and sea salt in a bowl and stir until well combined. Toss in the cauliflower and coat well.

Add to greased shallow baking pan and bake for about 20 minutes.

While the cauliflower is baking, combine your buffalo sauce with butter in a small bowl.

Pour the hot sauce mixture over the baked cauliflower and continue baking for an additional 8 to 10 minutes or so.

Serve with ranch dressing and celery sticks

Summer Food Safety: Clean, Cook, Separate, Cool

A Message From Ruth Jones, City Of Quincy Health Commissioner

By RUTH JONES
MSPH, BSN, RN,
BC, CP-FS

Picnic and barbecue season offers many prospects for outdoor fun with family and friends. But these warm weather events also present a multitude of opportunities for foodborne bacteria to thrive. As food heats up in summer temperatures, bacteria multiply swiftly, presenting some serious challenges to keeping your food safe and free from harmful pathogens.

Food safety starts with proper hand cleaning including in outdoor settings. If you don't have access to running water, use a water jug, some soap, and paper towels. Or, consider using moist disposable towelettes for cleaning your hands. Make certain you keep all utensils and platters clean when preparing food. Maintaining food at proper temperatures both indoors and outside is crucial in averting the growth of foodborne bacteria.

The key is to never let your picnic food remain in the "Danger Zone" between 35°F and 140 °F for more than 2 hours, or 1 hour if outdoor temperatures are above 90 °F. This is when bacteria in food can multiply rapidly, and lead to foodborne illness.

Cold food should be stored at 40 °F or below to inhibit bacterial growth. Place cold food in a cooler with ice or frozen gel packs. Meat, poultry, and seafood can be packed while still frozen so that they stay colder for an extended period of time. Wisely organize the contents of your cooler and think about packing beverages in one cooler and perishable food in another. Limit the number of times the cooler is opened to assist in maintaining the temperature inside. Be sure to keep raw meat, poultry, and seafood securely wrapped in order to keep their juices from contaminating prepared/cooked foods or foods that will be eaten raw, such as fruits and vegetables. Rinse fresh fruits and vegetables under running tap water before packing them in the cooler.

Safe cooking temperature and picnicking regularly go hand-in-hand. Similarly as cooking indoors, there are essential guidelines that should be followed to ensure that your grilled food reaches the table safely.

- Marinate foods in the refrigerator never on the kitchen counter or outdoors. Furthermore, if you plan to use some of the marinade as a sauce on the cooked food, reserve a portion separately before adding the raw meat, poultry, or seafood.

- Cook immediately after "partial" cooking. Partial cooking before grilling is only safe when the partially cooked food can go on the hot grill immediately.

- Cook food thoroughly. Have your food thermometer standing by and always use it to be sure your food is cooked to a safe temperature.

- Keep "ready" food hot. Grilled food can be kept hot until served by moving it to the side of the grill rack, just away from the coals. This keeps it warm but prevents overcooking.

- Check for foreign objects in food. If you clean your grill using a bristle brush, inspect it to make sure that no detached bristles have made their way into grilled food.

Prevent cross-contamination when serving, under no circumstances reuse a plate or utensils that previously held raw meat, poultry, or seafood for serving unless they've been initially washed in hot, soapy water. Otherwise, you can spread bacteria from the raw juices to your cooked or ready-to-eat food.

Keep in mind the 4 basic principles of food safety: Clean, Cook, Separate, Cool

CLEAN

- Wash your hands with warm water and soap for at least 20 seconds before and after handling food and after using the bathroom, changing diapers, and handling pets.

- Wash your cutting boards, dishes, utensils, and counter tops with hot soapy water after preparing each food item.

- Consider using paper towels to clean up kitchen surfaces. If you use cloth towels, launder them often in the hot cycle.

- Rinse fresh fruits and vegetables under running tap water, including those with skins and rinds that are not eaten. Scrub firm produce with a clean produce brush.

- With canned goods, remember to clean lids before opening.

COOK

- Using a food thermometer is the only way to ensure the safety of meat, poultry, seafood, and egg products for all cooking methods. Color and texture are undependable indicators of safety. These foods must be cooked to a safe minimum internal temperature to destroy any dangerous bacteria.

- Cook eggs until the yolk and white are firm. Only use recipes in which eggs are cooked or heated completely.

- When cooking in a microwave oven, cover food, stir, and rotate for even cooking. Always allow standing time, which completes the cooking, before checking the internal temperature with a food thermometer.

- Bring sauces, soups and gravy to a boil when reheating.

SEPARATE

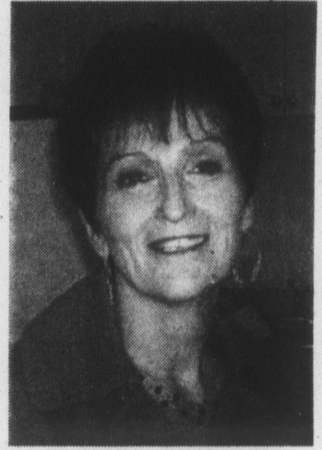

- Separate raw meat, poultry, seafood, and eggs from other foods in your shopping cart, grocery bags, and refrigerator.

- Use one cutting board for fresh produce and a separate one for raw meat, poultry, and seafood. •Never place cooked food on a plate that previously held raw meat, poultry, seafood, or eggs unless the plate has been washed in hot, soapy water.

COOL

- Use an appliance thermometer to be sure the temperature is consistently 40° F or below and the freezer temperature is 0° F or below.

- Refrigerate or freeze

meat, poultry, eggs, seafood, and other perishables within 2 hours of cooking or purchasing. Refrigerate within 1 hour if the temperature outside is above 90° F.

- Under no circumstances thaw food at room temperature, such as on the counter top. There are three safe ways to defrost food: in the refrigerator, under running cold water, and in the microwave. Food thawed in cold water or in the microwave should be cooked immediately.

- Always marinate food in the refrigerator.

- Divide large amounts of leftovers into shallow containers for quicker cooling in the refrigerator.

Every summer millions of us are eagerly looking forward to firing up the grill at family backyard BBQs, picnics, and tailgates. Safe food handling when eating outdoors during warm-weather months, is critical in keeping food poisoning off the menu and protecting yourself and those around you from foodborne illness.

Ruth Jones is the health commissioner for the City of Quincy.

Dear Dietitian

By LEANNE McCRATE
RD, LD, CNSC

Dear Dietitian,
What makes "blue zone diets" like the Mediterranean diet so healthy?

Signed,
Chris

Dear Chris,

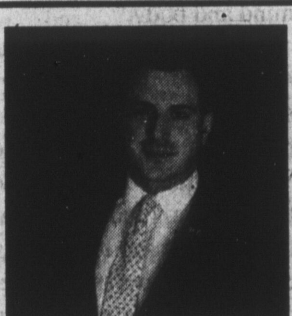

Blue zones are areas of the world where people live much longer than average. The term was trademarked by Dan Buettner who identified these five regions of the world: Sardinia, Italy; the community of Seventh-Day Adventists in Loma Linda, California; Ikaria, Greece; Okinawa, Japan; and Costa Rica's Nicoya Peninsula.

The Mediterranean diet (MeDiet) is a type of blue zone diet and is traditionally followed by people who live along the Mediterranean Sea. It is a plant-based diet rich in fruits, vegetables, whole grains, nuts, fish, and olive oil. Red meat is eaten no more than once a week, and red wine is often enjoyed with meals. This diet is associated with lower rates of cardiovascular disease (CVD) than American diets. It replaces saturated fat with monounsaturated fat found in extra virgin olive oil and polyunsaturated fat found in nuts. It is likely the combination of foods in this diet that produces health benefits.

In the PREDIMED study published in 2013 Journal of New England Medicine, over 7,000 participants were randomized to follow a MeDiet with added olive oil; a MeDiet with added nuts, or a low-fat diet in the control group. Participants were instructed NOT to reduce calories. The study measured the combined risk of heart attack, stroke, and death from cardiovascular (CV) events. Cardiovascular events were defined as heart attack, stroke, or death from cardiovascular causes. Those who followed the MeDiet with olive oil saw a 30% decrease in CV events, while the MeDiet + nuts saw a 28% decrease compared to the low-fat group.

While diet is a major contributor to well-being in blue zone areas, it is important to note other significant factors. These cultures also have an emphasis on faith, family, physical activity, no smoking, and no "time urgency." Several ingredients go into a healthy lifestyle recipe.

Sincerely,
Dear Dietitian

South Shore YMCA Launches Staystrong Community Cancer Support Initiative

The South Shore YMCA has launched Staystrong, its new, collaborative community cancer support program providing essential daily living support to cancer patients, cancer survivors, their household family members and caregivers.

Unlike traditional cancer support programs that focus on helping the individual deal directly with clinical care, the Staystrong program offers a unique, community-based approach to help cancer patients manage and improve their everyday personal lives and family responsibilities through the extended services and expertise of the YMCA, a leader in community integrated health.

Built to encompass the entire family, Staystrong participants will have free access to YMCA-sponsored health and wellness resources, programs and support to help them face the overwhelming challenges of a cancer diagnosis. The initiative also includes free membership to all South Shore YMCA locations, a complimentary week of summer camp for children enrolled in the program, and free, on-site drop-in babysitting for parents who are currently in treatment.

"When it comes to cancer treatment, much of the focus is on medical and clinical care, and we are fortunate to have access to some of the greatest treatment centers in the world right here in our backyard," said Paul Gorman, president and CEO, South Shore YMCA. "Unfortunately, not enough has been defined on the broad topic of ongoing survivor-ship once outside of the hospital. The South Shore Y recognizes that while science has made tremendous strides in cancer research and treatments, there is still more to be done beyond the clinical environment when it comes to caring for the patient and their family."

The year-long Y program is available at no cost to anyone who has undergone cancer diagnosis and/or treatment within the past 12 months. And because the diagnosis of cancer does not solely affect the person who is fighting the disease, a distinctive feature of Staystrong is that it extends beyond the patient to include each of their household family members and caregivers as they navigate through this challenging chapter of their lives together.

"The Staystrong program offers something very unique to the community and to patients that they can't get at the hospital or at a cancer treatment center," said RN program coordinator Kerri Clancy. "It offers a common place where they can gather together to heal holistically alongside other cancer patients, survivors and families in similar circumstances."

From special access to the SSYMCA Germantown Food Pantry, to a free week of summer day camp for children whose parents are going through cancer treatment, a suite of tailored programs and resources is available to Staystrong participants upon their joining the program. Families can even get together with other families at a dedicated Staystrong Family Overnight Camping Weekend at the Y's Camp Burgess & Hayward. The services included within Staystrong also extend beyond the Y's walls, reaching into the community via collaborative relationships with educators, professionals and partners, each available to help with questions on topics including but not limited to: finance, insurance, nutrition, fitness, faith and spirituality.

"For me, not having to worry about where you're dropping off your kids so that you can help heal your mind and your body is crucial," said cancer survivor Kelly Cassier. "It's so important that Staystrong goes beyond thinking about the patient. Children and family members are included in Staystrong so that they, too, can have a safe place to unwind, play and be a part of a community that extends far beyond the support and care of our immediate family."

The Staystrong logo was designed as a pyramid – the strong, triangular structure serving as a nod to the cancer survivor's strength and resilience. The logo's center represents the cancer patient or survivor, wrapped in the combined support of (1) the Y community, (2) their family and caregivers, and (3) the expertise of the medical community – all working together to help people rebuild their lives in spirit, mind and body.

"Staystrong helps patients to regain their confidence and connect with their peers in a non-clinical setting, and easily access resources to alleviate the burden of day-to-day activities that can become challenging when working through cancer treatments," said Katelyn Szafr, Director of Medical Wellness, South Shore YMCA. "When it comes to facing cancer, the person battling the disease can become overwhelmed, struggling to keep their daily life together. Staystrong will offer so much more to participants than what meets the eye. It will give them strength, motivation, and a greater sense of belonging."

Guided by its mission statement, "The Better You Belongs Here," the South Shore YMCA seeks to give each person a place to truly belong. "The Y recognizes that it truly takes a community to strengthen each cancer patient's fight," said Gorman. "It is our hope that with Staystrong at the Y, we can work together to help thousands of people on the South Shore as they overcome the obstacles they face throughout cancer treatment and recovery and reclaim their lives with renewed hope and strength in spirit, mind and body."

Thanks to the generous support of donors, Staystrong is offered at no cost to participants. To help the South Shore YMCA raise the essential funds needed to offer Staystrong to as many cancer survivors as possible, donate in honor or memory of someone you know who has been affected by cancer.

To learn more about Staystrong or to donate or volunteer to help with the program, visit www.ssymca.org/staystrong.

For questions, contact Katelyn Szafr, Director of Medical Wellness, South Shore YMCA at staystrong@ssymca.org.

Social Security Matters Computing Benefits When 'WEP' Applies

By RUSSELL GLOOR

AMAC Certified Social Security Advisor
Association Of Mature American Citizens

Dear Rusty: My wife is subject to the Windfall Elimination Provision (WEP) and I'm trying to calculate what her monthly Social Security payment might be. The circular provided by SS says that her earnings will be calculated by multiplying the first $895 of her average monthly earnings by 90%. According to the circular, since she doesn't have 30 or more years of substantial earnings the 90% will be reduced to 40%. My question is this: How many months do they use to divide into the total earnings to determine the average monthly earnings? If I use the number of total working years, her monthly average is very low and getting lower the longer she works. For example, she has been working since 1973 (46 years/552 months). However, she only paid SS taxes in 20 of those years (240 months). She turned 62 last November, so if she waits to draw SS until her full retirement age she will add another 56 months to the average calculation and reduce her benefit accordingly. I can't determine when it's better for her to apply unless I know how many months they will factor into the calculation. Signed: Confused

Dear Confused: First, I need to clarify for you the basics of how SS benefits are determined (before the WEP computation). Social Security will look at your wife's entire lifetime record of SS-covered earnings, adjust each year's earnings for inflation, and find the 35 years in which she had the highest earnings. If she doesn't have a full 35 years of SS-covered earnings, they'll put zeros in to bring the number of years to 35. They'll then total her earnings for those 35 years and divide by 420 (the number of months in 35 years) to arrive at her "average indexed monthly earnings" (AIME).

The WEP computation is done using her AIME. To arrive at the SS benefit amount, her AIME is divided into 3 parts, and a different percentage of each part contributes to her "primary insurance amount," or "PIA" – the amount due at full retirement age. Normally, the first of the 3 parts is 90% of $895 (for her eligibility year, which was last year). But when WEP applies, a different percentage is used for the first calculation. If she has 20 or fewer years of SS-covered significant earnings, the first part is multiplied by 40% instead of 90%. If she has more than 20 years of SS-covered significant earnings, the multiplier will increase by 5% for each additional year, up to 30 years of SS covered significant earnings when WEP no longer applies. So, for example, if she has 24 years of SS-covered significant earnings then the WEP multiplier would be 55% instead of 40%, thus increasing her WEP-PIA and lessening the amount of her WEP reduction.

For each year your wife now works and has significant SS earnings, one of those zero years in the 35-year computation will be eliminated, thus increasing her "AIME" and "PIA" (as described above). If your wife now has 20 years of SS-covered earnings, then each additional year she now works in SS-covered employment will add 5% to the multiplier used when doing the WEP computation (thus reducing the WEP effect and increasing her net SS benefit amount). If your wife claims before her full retirement age (FRA), her WEP-reduced benefit amount will be further reduced because she is claiming benefits early. WEP reduces her PIA, which is her FRA benefit amount; claiming earlier than her full retirement age further reduces her benefit amount.

So, to your specific question, the number of months they factor into the benefit calculation is always 420 (35 years times 12). If she doesn't have earnings in all 35 of those years working now will improve, not decrease, your wife's Social Security benefit.

Portion Of Arlington St. Renamed For Ex-POW Richard Stratton ton, in honor of Navy Capt. Richard Stratton. The road will now be known as Richard Stratton Way.

Stratton, now 87 and residing in Florida, grew up at 54 Bowdoin St. in Quincy's Montclair neighborhood. A North Quincy High School graduate, Stratton said he used to walk along Arlington Street while headed to and from school.

"We used to walk back and forth from Bowdoin Street to NQHS. Particularly in the winter when a nor'easter was blowing, the winds coming off the marsh just after crossing the railroad bridge were something fierce," he said. "So instead of taking Squantum Street along the marsh into Montclair proper, we would cut over on Arlington Street to Fayette and then go home up Holbrook Road."

Stratton said he was humbled to have the road dedicated in his honor.

"It is humbling that Mayor Koch and the Quincy City Council would consider placing my name on a street segment in Quincy," Stratton said.

"Our family roots and values come from Montclair, NQHS and Sacred Heart Church. During our imprisonment as POWs in Hanoi during the Vietnam War, our leaders found that the one string which we had in common was that we came from close family values reinforced by a neighborhood that mentored, a school system that cared, a church that nurtured. The pundits say we survived because we were, officers, educated, aviators, mature, survival school graduates and many other myths. Not so.

"We survived, and survived with class, because of our roots. Without Quincy, its history, traditions and institutions I would not have been prepared to last six years of communist mistreatment. So once again I am grateful to the city of Quincy for caring."

Stratton and Alice, his wife of years of 60 years, have three sons and six granddaughters. Their oldest two sons are Marine Corps veterans of the Gulf War and one his granddaughters serves in the Coast Guard.

Stratton is among the North Quincy High School graduates who are honored inside the school's Atrium of Honor. Lawrence Norton, the president of the Vietnam Combat Veterans Combined Armed Forces Quincy Chapter, said the re-naming of Arlington Street was a fitting way to publicly honor Stratton.

"It's long overdue for a true American hero," Norton said.

Chris Walker, Koch's chief of staff, echoed the same sentiment.

"Capt. Richard Stratton, without exaggeration, is nothing short of an American hero," Walker said.

"Too often these kinds of recognitions happen as memorials," he added. "Mayor Koch feels very strongly that we as a community, when possible, should honor those who deserve it while they are alive to be honored."

Stratton was deployed to Vietnam in 1966 and flew 21 missions before his A-4 Skyhawk was shot down in January 1967, Walker said. Stratton was captured by North Vietnamese forces and held prisoner for 2,251 days.

"He endured years of torture - at one point forced to submit a charade confession in which he publicly criticized the American presence in Vietnam," Walker said. "His case...was among the first that brought attention to American public about the inhumane treatment suffered by American POWs for many years in Vietnam."

Stratton was released in March 1973 and continued to serve in the Navy for the next 13 years, Walker said; after retiring from active service, he earned a degree in social work and then worked as a counselor to servicemembers affected by PTSD and substance-abuse issues.

Stratton said his health required him to live in a continuing care retirement community after retiring from the service, and no military-oriented ones were open on the South Shore.

"Upon my retirement from the service my health dictated that I settle in a CCRC. Unfortunately, there were no Military oriented CCRCs on the South Shore," he said. "As a result, I no longer shovel snow but miss watching submarine races at Wollaston Beach."

City To Hire Full-Time Tourism Director

$30,000 for tourism expenses. Walker said the latter would fund the program that offers guided tours of City Hall and the adjacent Hancock Cemetery.

The entire tourism budget would be offset by hotel tax receipts.

The city plans to advertise for the new tourism director's position, Walker said following the meeting. Among other responsibilities, the tourism director would be tasked with overseeing the tourism office; developing a marketing plan for the city, including digital and social media, plus traditional mediums; conducting a public relations campaign to promote the city and the Quincy 400 initiative; write tourism-related grant proposals; and recruit local businesses for tourism events through sponsorship or membership.

The job would require a bachelor's degree in communications, marketing or a related field and five years of experience in tourism or a related field.

The tourism office's budget was approved by voice vote, as were all others considered during the June 5 hearing.

The Quincy Public Schools budget is funded through the city's general fund and the state circuit breaker program. The School Committee determines how the money in QPS budget is allocated; the council sets the bottom line for the general fund allocation.

Koch proposed increasing the school system's general fund allocation from $104.86 million in the current fiscal year $110.21 million for FY20, an increase of $5.2 million. The schools will also receive $5.3 million from the state.

The added money will allow the school system to hire a new full- and part-time classroom teacher, a part-time art teacher and part-time music teacher, a full-time English language learner teacher, four full-time special education teachers, 21 full-time special education aides, and a part-time occupational therapist, among other new positions. The budget will also provide funding to stop the use of Styrofoam trays in school cafeterias; they will be replaced with biodegradable products.

There are several budgets that fall under the Department of Public Works.

They include the budget for the Engineering Department, which will increase from $793,000 to $914,000. The increase will allow for the hiring of a new engineering in training and additional money for overtime. Paul Della Barbra, the business manager for the DPW, said the increase was sought because the department is overseeing more road and infrastructure work now than it has in years past.

The Department of Public Works budget will increase from $5.15 million to $5.38 million. It includes an additional $75,000 for transportation costs; Della Barbra said the city's contract to purchase gasoline expires in March and the cost is expected to rise when the new contract is signed.

Also included among the DPW budgets is the Drain Department, whose budget will decrease from $1.81 million to $1.69 million.

The budget for snow removal will increase by $13,500 to $2,72 million; the increase is for the overtime line item. The city will finish the current fiscal year with a $500,000 surplus in the snow removal budget.

Councillor Anne Mahoney proposed a $13,500 cut to the snow removal budget, noting the city ended the year in a surplus. The committee rejected the cut in a 6-2 vote. Nina Liang joined Mahoney in supporting the cut, while Ian Cain, Brad Croall, Noel DiBona, William Harris, David McCarthy and Brian Palmucci voted against it.

The budget for waste collection and disposal will increase from $7.47 million to $7.88 million. Walker noted the lawsuit filed by the city's previous trash contractor, Sunrise Scavenger, has been dropped. Sunrise filed suit last year after Koch fired the company midway through a ten-year contract and hired Capitol Waste Services.

The sewer and water enterprise budgets, which are funded separate from the general fund, were also approved. The sewer budget will increase from $25.83 million to $26.36 million. The water budget will increase from $19.21 million to $19.5 million.

The Thomas Crane Public Library's budget will increase from $3.41 million to $3.51 million.

The Health Department's budget will increase from $1.13 million to $1.16 million. The budget includes an extra $20,000 for pest control, bringing that line item to $300,000.

The budget for celebration, which falls under the mayor's purview, was approved. It will increase from $152,500 to $175,000. Walker said the increase was sought because Quincy has expanded its events in recent years, such as a festival marking Presidents Day, and because the costs for those events increases each year.

Mahoney proposed a cut to level fund the celebrations budget. She noted the budget for the downtown division - a separate agency funded outside of the general fund - would have its own $25,000 line item for celebrations. Mahoney's proposed cut failed in a 6-2 vote, with Palmucci supporting the cut and the remaining six councillors present for the meeting opposed.

The $161,000 budget for the substance abuse coordinator was also approved during the June 5 meeting.

The final budget councillors approved was their own. The budget for the City Council office will increase from $630,000 to $642,000.

Palmucci Asks Quincy Center Budget Put On Hold

By SCOTT JACKSON

Mayor Thomas Koch's request to create a new downtown division with three employees to oversee city assets in Quincy Center was tabled during a recent City Council meeting.

Ward 4 Councillor Brian Palmucci put the budget on hold June 5, saying he could not support creating a department whose employees would be assigned to one neighborhood. He asked the administration to return to the council on June 17 with a plan to place those three employees somewhere in the general fund budget.

Koch proposed the plan to create the downtown division in May when he submitted his annual budget requests to the City Council. The downtown division would be funded separate from the general fund using new tax revenue created within Quincy Center through the district improvement financing (DIF) program.

The mayor proposed a $7.27 million budget for the downtown division, including $4.67 million toward debt service line items, $250,000 to a reserve account for the downtown, and $1.91 million that would be transferred back to the general fund to reduce the taxes that would be collected elsewhere in the city. The three positions included in the budget are a downtown coordinator at a $101,000 salary, a junior mechanical engineer with a $92,000 salary, and a handyman with a $68,000 salary.

Palmucci asked that the downtown division budget be placed on hold during a meeting of the council's finance committee on June 5. Ward 3 Councillor Ian Cain, the chairman of the finance committee, granted Palmucci's request to table the matter until June 17, the final council meeting of the spring.

Palmucci said he was opposed to creating a department whose employees would only work in one area of the city.

"I'm not suggesting these positions aren't necessary - I think the administration can make a case for why they are necessary. But whether or not they are necessary and whether or not they are supported by this body, it shouldn't be done in a downtown department," Palmucci said.

"I don't support creating a department that services only one neighborhood of our very diverse city. For that reason, I am asking that this particular budget be held and that the administration go back to the drawing board and re-sprinkle these three positions into the agencies that are most appropriate for them and they service the downtown and residents."

Chris Walker, Koch's chief of staff, said other councillors had raised concerns about the department prior to the finance committee meeting. The administration, he said, was willing to take a second look at how the three positions are handled.

"We're open to that - to having a further discussion. As I stand here right now, I can't say definitely what shape or form it may take. We need a little bit of work on that, but I think we can certainly be open to a great degree to addressing Councillor Palmucci's concerns and some of the other concerns already raised by the councillors," Walker said.

"Clearly, we haven't made enough of a case here for this and we're open to the opportunity, if granted, to...go back and take a second look at it."

Koch, in a June 3 letter to city councillors, said creating a new downtown division was done to ensure residents the city's efforts in Quincy Center were self-sustaining.

"Segregating downtown operational costs into its own division creates a transparent mechanism of keeping to our shared goal of ensuring that the downtown pays for itself," Koch said. "Rather than spreading positions and associated spending requests among multiple departments, this format will show all downtown-related spending in one place, including the debt service for previous and future financing packages."

"Additionally, by housing these employees in a separate division, it helps maintain their focus on their specific duties," Koch said later in the letter. "The practical reality is that employees of larger departments are often tasked to jobs outside of their normal responsibilities depending on day-to-day situations."

The three new positions, Koch added, are essential.

"Regardless of how we account for downtown expenses, I strongly believe the funding and positions included as part of this year's budget proposal meet essential operation needs," the mayor said.

"In the coming fiscal year alone, we will take full control of the Hancock-Adams Common from the project's contractors; we will open a new 700-space garage in the former Hancock Lot; and we will also be responsible for an expansive new civic space in the same area of the garage. There is without question a need for coordination and a robust operational management plan to tend to these assets."

The downtown coordinator would be tasked with the day-to-day operations of all public assets in Quincy Center, including supervising operation and maintenance staff and contractors, according to a job description for the position provided to councillors. A bachelor's degree in business, facilities or project management or a related field would be required for the job, plus at least 10 years of management experience.

The junior mechanical engineer would be charged with responsibility for operating and maintaining technical and mechanical components in all of the public assets in the downtown, including the garage, civic space and Hancock-Adams Common. Five years of experience in building and systems engineering would be required for the position.

The handyman would be responsible for the upkeep, repair and maintenance of those assets. Ten years of experience in general construction - including at least five years of experience in carpentry or another trade - is a prerequisite for the job.

VOLUNTEERS FROM THE new Sherwin-Williams store on McGrath Highway recently repainted the downstairs level at the South Shore YMCA on Coddington Street.

Volunteers Repaint Downstairs Level Of South Shore YMCA

The downstairs level of the Quincy Y branch was repainted June 6 and June 7 by volunteers from Sherwin-Williams.

"We're here today painting the Quincy Y because we love giving back to the community through projects like this," said Samuel Goodrich, city manager for Sherwin-Williams. "Thirty-five volunteers from Sherwin-Williams are here on-site from today through tomorrow to help repaint the downstairs level of the branch. We use volunteer days like today as an opportunity to teach our new employees to paint so that they can give good customer service to our customers as well. It's a great atmosphere - everyone's really excited to be here and be a part of this today."

A short walk down the road from the Quincy YMCA branch, one of Sherwin-Williams' newest store locations has recently opened on McGrath Highway.

"We have a national paint week going on right now so stores all over the country are doing different projects to help the community like what we're doing here today at the Quincy Y," said Kelsey Pannier, store manager for the new Sherwin-Williams Quincy location. "We're excited to call Quincy home, and look forward to serving the local community."

"For the Quincy YMCA, this is a tremendous gift that Sherwin-Williams has given us," said Erik Abboud, associate executive director, South Shore YMCA, Quincy branch. "Donating everything from their time to the paint and materials needed to keep our Quincy Y refreshed, they've made themselves great neighbors to us here on Coddington Street and we look forward to their continued partnership."

PorchFest To Feature Over 100 Performances

Fourth annual PorchFest will be on Saturday, June 22, from 3 - 9 p.m. featuring over 100 performances on porches Squantum, Merrymount, and Wollaston Hill.

An estimated 10,000 people are expected to enjoy the music throughout the three neighborhoods.

"This event is organized entirely by a small group of dedicated volunteers, without whom this event would never happen," said event

Co-Founder Walter Hubley. "We are so thankful for their efforts on behalf of talented artists whose music styles from various genres including country, rock, alternative, classical, and easy listening."

Hubley continued, "We are still working on the concession options but will be featuring a few beer gardens pouring local craft beer and the Wahlburgers will be there as well."

The performance schedule will be published on the PorchFest website a few days before the event, which attendees can download and print. There will also be an interact mobile website attendees can use to plan your walk through the festival.

City Vows To Continue Fight Against L.I. Bridge

campus on the latter. Quincy officials were quick to oppose the plan after Walsh's announcement, citing the impact the bridge would have on traffic in Squantum and North Quincy.

The Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection issued a superseding order of conditions, allowing Boston's proposal to rebuild the bridge to move forward, Walsh announced Saturday. Mass-DEP issued its ruling following Boston's appeal of the Quincy Conservation Commission's decision to reject the plan to rebuild the bridge, and Quincy's appeal of the Boston Conservation Commission's decision to allow the project to move forward.

Koch said his administration is reviewing its options to appeal the DEP's decision.

"We continue to look at all our options," he said. "When this was first announced, I promised the residents of Squantum, Marina Bay and North Quincy we will do everything we can to stop the city of Boston from building the bridge... We are looking at all our options on how to keep that word."

Koch re-iterated he is not opposed to Walsh's proposal to open the recovery campus on Long Island but is concerned about traffic the bridge would bring to Squantum and North Quincy. Boston, he said, should consider using ferries to bring people to and from Long Island.

Ward 6 Councillor William Harris, who represents Squantum, vowed Quincy would press forward in its campaign against the bridge.

"Despite the recent state rulings, the city of Quincy will not stop fighting," Harris said.

Walsh hailed the Mass-DEP ruling in a statement Saturday.

"Our efforts to create a regional recovery campus on Long Island have always been guided by our fundamental belief that every person deserves a chance at recovery," Walsh said. "The opioid crisis we're living goes beyond city lines, and we welcome everyone's support as we take action to help those suffering find their path to a better life."

"The Long Island Bridge carried the weight of those in need for more than 60 years and it's our hope that the island will once again serve as the sanctuary it's meant to be."

The former Long Island Bridge, which opened in 1951, was closed in 2014 and later demolished. The piers that supported the structure remain in place and Boston plans to re-use them to support the new span. Boston has said the new bridge would have a 75-year lifespan.

Boston officials said they considered using a ferry to access the island but determined such a service would not be feasible.

"After examining a ferry service, city of Boston engineers and consultants determined that this is not an adequate option given the environmental impact, cost, and typical timeline for implementation, and more importantly, the inability of a ferry to support the required public safety services for a public health campus," Walsh's office said in a statement.

Boston is planning an innovative and holistic recovery campus on Long Island that will expand essential recovery services for the region, fill gaps in the continuum of care and utilize the natural environment to provide a healing space, Walsh's office said. Boston has contracted with Gensler and Ascension Recovery Services to identify the types of services, resources and treatment options that would be best suited for the island and create a master plan for the recovery campus.

Harris has drafted a letter to Norfolk County District Attorney Michael Morrissey and Suffolk County District Attorney Rachael Rollins, asking prosecutors to investigate if Native American remains from Deer Island were dumped in Quincy in the 1990s.

Harris said he is concerned Native American burial grounds on Long Island from the 1670s, when Native Americans were interned on the island during King Philip's War, could be disturbed by Boston's plan.

"I am also concerned that if the past circumstances of what happened in the city of Quincy in 1994 are not addressed, concerns which we as officials representing the city of Quincy have both a right and a responsibility to see set straight, the past could be repeated with regard to the other Boston Harbor Islands Indian burial grounds, such as on Long Island," Harris said.

William Isenberg, who is challenging Harris in this year's municipal election, called the plan to open the recovery campus on Long Island "misguided."

"As a public defender who has sought justice on behalf of hundreds of our neighbors who suffer from substance-use disorder, I urge Mayor Walsh not to throw good money after bad by continuing his misguided quest to place a recovery campus on Long Island," Isenberg said in a statement.

"Modern treatment models favor community-based recovery, which continues to integrate those suffering from SUD rather than, literally, isolating them on an island. Further, our neighbors need beds immediately. Not after untold years of construction - today. Rather than continue to throw resources at each other in court, Quincy and Boston should join forces to find data-driven solutions to the opiate crisis. Forcing this ill-conceived venture is completely counterproductive."

Council Opposes FCC Local Access Changes

By SCOTT JACKSON

City councillors unanimously approved a resolution opposing a change in federal regulations that could impact local access television networks across the United States, including Quincy Access TV.

The proposed change by the Federal Communications Commission would allow cable providers to deduct the cost of local programming from the franchise fees cable providers pay to municipalities.

The resolution approved by the City Council on June 3 urges the FCC to reject the rule change and suggests Quincy residents also voice their concerns about the change, because the proposal could result in reduced funding for QATV.

Councillors Anne Mahoney, Noel DiBona, Brad Croall and Brian Palmucci sponsored the resolution. They said QATV provides a valuable service to residents.

"It's a definite service to the city of Quincy," Mahoney said. "We have information that we share with residents. It's broadcasting our meetings, our School Committee meetings.

"There could be a loss of programming with this new FCC regulation...it would force communities to pick up the tab or not have that at all. This is creating a giant change and a giant loss in the city of Quincy."

"The value of QATV can't be understated," Palmucci added. "It's a tool that allows the citizens to know what their government does and to know what happens in the city. That is fundamental to the democracy of our country - fundamental to the democracy of our city."

"An informed public is invaluable to a representative democracy. What's happening at the national level really strikes to the core of some of our democratic ideals that were born in Quincy and this region."

DiBona noted any resident of the city can become a member of QATV and produce their own programming. QATV, he said, has aired programs on youth sports and the offerings of the city's recreation department, like the Senior Olympics.

"If we lose some funding for this...you'd have to lay off a few people over there. You'd have to figure out how to fund some of those things," DiBona said. "It's unfortunate."

Croall thanked Mahoney for her work drafting the resolution.

"I support 110 percent our friends at Quincy Access Television - it's a tremendous tool," he said. "Thank you for your hard work on this."

Ward 3 Councillor Ian Cain, who last year introduced a resolution calling for the establishment of municipal broadband service in the city, said one of the benefits of such a service would be robust local access programming. An update on the possible municipal broadband service could be forthcoming in the fall, he added.

"We supported the exploration of developing a municipal broadband network in the city so that we can provide the residents with a choice as consumers in the city. But what that will also allow on this network that will be municipally owned and operated is for the creation or the support of local access like this," Cain said.

Uptick In Norfolk County Real Estate Activity, Register O'Donnell Reports

While the weather in May was starting to get slightly warmer, so too was the Norfolk County real estate market, according to Register of Deeds William O'Donnell.

O'Donnell noted a noticeable uptick in both real estate sales and lending transactions happened last month.

"Specifically, during the month of May, Norfolk County real estate sales, both residential and commercial, totaled 1,742, a healthy 7 percent increase year over year," he said.

While real estate transactions increased, the average real estate price, again both residential and commercial, was $702,071, a 16 percent decrease compared to May 2018. Also, total dollar real estate sales volume decreased 13 percent to $786.3 million. However, according to O'Donnell, these figures can be attributed to two big commercial sales last year of $61 million and $70 million that skewed the numbers.

Lending activity in Norfolk County also rose during the month of May.

"The number of mortgages recorded against County properties increased 6 percent year over year," O'Donnell said. "The increases in real estate sales and mortgage transactions clearly tell us that the market is definitely loosening up due in part to increased real estate inventory. Sustaining the available inventory numbers will be a key component in ensuring that the Norfolk County real estate market continues its push in a positive direction."

The month of May also saw Norfolk County homeowners continuing to take advantage of the Homestead Act. During May, a total of 1,160 Homesteads were recorded, a 5 percent increase compared to May 2018.

Register O'Donnell spoke about the importance of recording a Homestead Act against your primary property.

"A Homestead is an important consumer tool that provides limited protection against the forced sale of an individual's primary residence to satisfy unsecured debt up to $500,000," O'Donnell said.

Another good sign for the market has been the reduction in foreclosure activity during the past several months. The number of foreclosure deeds recorded in the county during May was 4, a significant 75 percent decrease compared to May 2018. In addition, the number of Notice to Foreclose Mortgage recordings, the first step in the foreclosure process, was 41, a 38 percent decrease year over year.

O'Donnell noted the Norfolk County Registry of Deeds continues to partner with non-profit agencies Quincy Community Action Programs, 617-479-8181 x376 and NeighborWorks Housing Solutions, a new entity recently created by the merger of NeighborWorks Southern Massachusetts and Housing Solutions for Southeastern Massachusetts. For assistance, you can call NeighborWorks Housing Solutions at 508-587-0950.

Both NeighborWorks Housing Solutions and Quincy Community Action Programs are staffed with professionals that can help someone who has received a Notice to Foreclose Mortgage document. Another option is to contact the Massachusetts Attorney General's Consumer Advocacy and Response Division (CARD) at 617-727-8400.

Concluding his remarks, O'Donnell said:

"The increase in May's sales and lending activity, coupled with a larger pool of available housing, gives me guarded optimism to believe that the Norfolk County real estate market is heading for a good summer run. Another factor that should help is the continued stabilizing of interest rates by the Fed which we've seen during the last quarter."

Free Color Workshops Saturday At New Sherwin Williams Store

Have you ever had questions such as these when it comes to choosing paint colors:

- I've heard a that a blue or green bedroom can be calming, is this true? Does a color choice really affect your mood?

- How do you choose paint colors moving from one area to another in an open floor plan?

- How do I choose the right wall color to complement the many colors in my living room area rug?

- Do paint colors change according to different lighting situations?

Come to the new Sherwin Williams store at 100 Mayor McGrath Highway to find answers to these questions and many more.

Barbara Graceffa, "Secretary of the Interior," will conduct two free workshops on Saturday, June 15 at 9 a.m.

The first will examine the color wheel and workshops participants will learn about complementary, analogous, and other color theories like monochromatic color schemes, the 60-30-10 rule, and other color tips from the Quincy interior decorator. In the second workshop, attendees will discover the characteristics and personalities of certain colors; for example, a red dining room can make guests more talkative as well as raise their blood pressure.

Graceffa will also offer short color consultations she calls "speed dating" with anyone who needs assistance choosing a paint color. Bring your fabric swatches and photos to share.

Gabriela Gonzalez, design account executive at The Sherwin Williams Paint Company, said she is excited to bring these workshops to Quincy area residents.

"Barbara Graceffa has an entertaining teaching style as well as a knack of unraveling color challenges so that everyone chooses the right paint colors for their home."

Refreshments will be served.

Crane Library Bookstore Summer Sale

The Thomas Crane Public Library Bookstore announces a sale during the months of June, July and August.

During the summer months, the Crane Library Bookstore is offering a buy-one-get-one-free deal on all fiction books, which includes the shop's special sections for mysteries and for science-fiction. Hardcover books sell for $2 and paper backs for $1.

The shop's collection also features biographies of notables such as political figures and movie stars, an impressive variety of history books, classic literature with a special Shakespeare shelf, and DVD's ($2) and CD's ($1) of various genres.

Gently-used, resalable donations are accepted and can be dropped at the store or at the library's main desk. Hours are Thursday evenings from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. and Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Sponsored and managed by volunteers of The Friends of the Crane Library, the little shop has a direct entrance at the rear of the library. Net proceeds of sales are used to fund and support the library's diverse community programs for adults and children.

Children's Hospital Blood Drive To Benefit 'The Mighty Quinn' Friday

The Boston Children's Hospital has a critical need for blood and will be hosting a blood drive in honor of Quinn Waters, "The Mighty Quinn," June 14, World Blood Donor Day.

Quinn, a three-year-old boy from Weymouth, is battling brain cancer at Boston Children's Hospital. He recently had to wait to receive a blood donation because there simply wasn't enough blood and plasma.

The Boston Children's Hospital Mighty Quinn Blood Drive will be held at St. Jerome School Friday, June 14 from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. The event will take place in the school gym, 598 Bridge St., Weymouth.

To make an appointment log onto: www.halfpints.childrenshospital.org and use sponsor code: MIGHT-

YQ.

The star of the show, "The Mighty Quinn," will be in isolation preparing for his stem cell transplant at Boston Children's Hospital, but there will be plenty of people on hand to help encourage anyone who can donate blood. His parents, Tara - a Quincy Police officer - and father, Jarlath - a Weymouth contractor - and 7-year-old sister, Maggie, are hoping to stop by for a special welcome at 10 a.m. in St. Jerome School gym.

Quincy Retired Teachers Assn. Awards 36 Scholarships

The Quincy Retired Teachers Scholarship Board recently held its 38th Annual Scholarship Night and announces the 36 winners of its 2019 Scholarships. This organization awards scholarships to graduating seniors at both Quincy and North Quincy High Schools.

The Scholarship Board was established in 1978 when the Quincy Retired Teachers Association received a contribution from the estate of Warren Findlay, math teacher at Quincy High School for the purpose of awarding scholarships.

The fund has grown substantially over time through contributions from the estates of retired teachers and from donations made in honor or in memory of retired teachers and their friends and family. The fund now exceeds $2 million.

"This contribution to the youth of Quincy from its retired teachers is unique in the Commonwealth," said Kathleen Mitchell, president of the Retired Teachers Association.

Since its inception, over 1,000 scholarships to graduating Quincy High School and North Quincy High School seniors, total over $1.5 million.

Linda Lew Hanson, president of the Scholarship Board, explained students at each high school apply for these scholarships through their respective high school's guidance department. Recipients are chosen by a Scholarship Committee at each high school.

Criteria for receiving these scholarships are based on high academic or technical achievement, desirable character traits, financial need and active participation in school or community activities.

"Quincy is very, very lucky to have an organization like the QRTA. Their generosity to our students is truly wonderful," said Quincy School Supt. Richard DeCristofaro, who attended the May 14th ceremony. "Tonight showed once again that Quincy's educators give unselfishly to our children while they work, when they retire and even after they pass away."

The Scholarship Fund presented Scholarships to:

Quincy High School graduates Christine Le, Yuetao Wu, Vivian Li, Xiaoxuan Zhang, Kumudini Devalla, Kyle Tobin, Maxine Lau, Lesley Chen, May Huang, Cindy Trac, Samantha van Gestel, Eni Daci, Matthew Sheridan, Anne Ballard, Taylor Lo, Maeve Collins, Ajijiloluwa "Jola" Laguda, Meghan Davis, Steven Pham and Tiffany Chen.

North Quincy High School graduates: Vinh Bao Hoang "Harold" Than, Samantha Duong, Caroline Huynh, Elisa Dylja, Grace Kelliher, Shannon Zhen, Qi Chen, Henry Chen, William Yang, Zhou Guan, David Maher, John Liu, Talia Viera, Jessica Au, Kayli Wu and Jasmine Zhen.

Artists Visit With Quincy High Students

Quincy High School's Design & Visual Communications program led by Aileen McGinnity had a very special speaker visit recently.

Zachary Achorn from SelfMade Designs shared his vision with the Design & Visual Communications, Film & Television and Fine Arts students. Achorn talked about his journey as he went from a college dropout to a mortgage loan rep to the owner of SelfMade Design, an artist haven.

Achorn came to QHS with his entourage. They included Dave Oxnard who does videography and photography, Carlton Dyer who is a carpenter, and Shlomo who has an online radio program. The group toured the school, spoke to arts classes, gave out T-shirts and taught the kids that you can make a living as an artist.

Achorn is the brains behind the "Support Local Artist" movement. In 2013, SelfMade Designs began a movement to serve and Support Local Artists™. What started as a simple motto has since turned into a crusade for the SelfMade Designs team, members, and supporters of its cause. The #SupportLocalArtists Street Team carries out their mission by raising awareness about the movement, supporting local artists at various events, and bringing their #gymforartists to the people.

Their one-of-a-kind "Gym for Artists" enables individuals of all ages and levels of experience to learn, practice, evolve, and showcase their artistic talents in a supportive, community environment. SelfMade Designs' Gym for Artists features comprehensive work spaces, helpful tools, ample resources, and instructor-led classes for various styles of art including painting, drawing, graphic and fashion design, photography, videography, screen-printing, sound recording and music production, DJing, clay/pottery, crafts, and more.

To show even more support for Quincy High, the boys attended the Fashion/Art Show that same evening.

"The show was amazing," said Achorn. "Robin Kaplan and the kids did an amazing job. We were all so impressed, we were saying how that show was better than some of the recent fashion shows we have been at in Boston."

On Sunday, June 2, members of the Quincy Police Department Drug Control Unit were working in plain clothes and operating unmarked police vehicles in the area of Holbrook Road, Farrington Street and Stop & Shop located on Newport Avenue.

At approximately 5 p.m., Detective Donovan watched as a Ford Focus with Rhode Island license plates operated by a male (sole occupant) park on Farrington Street. The detective watched as the driver exited his car wearing cargo pants and a T-shirt, while carrying another T-shirt. The driver immediately began texting on his phone while walking up and down the street looking around the neighborhood. Detective Donovan notified other detectives in the area of this suspicious behavior and requested assistance in surveillance of the driver.

Detectives Donovan and Glennon arrived on scene and observed the driver take the T-shirt he was carrying and tie it around his face like a mask as he continued walking the neighborhood. This concerned the detectives, fearing that he was about to rob someone. Moments later, he removed the T-shirt off his face. The driver then walked across Holbrook Road to Fayette Street where he stood on the sidewalk for a couple of minutes and then entered into the parking lot of Stop & Shop. He then entered the store and came out within five minutes with no visible merchandise.

The driver returned to his vehicle, where he sat there with his window down. During this time, Detective Powers ran the license plate, then the license and criminal record which showed the driver had disorderly conduct, drugs and felony assault charges. He then drove from Farrington Street to Newport Avenue southbound, turning onto Lincoln Avenue and into Wollaston Hill where he parked his car on Marion Avenue. He exited his vehicle and began walking through the neighborhood, looking into vehicles while trying door handles to see if the vehicles were unlocked.

He returned to his vehicle and re-parked at the intersection of Warren and Grandview Avenues, exited and began walking again. At this time, Detective Coen saw the driver open the door to a parked vehicle and sit in the driver's seat. The driver began rummaging through the middle console. As the driver got out of the vehicle, detectives observed that he had his left hand filled with something and placed it into his left pant pocket. Detectives closed in on the driver to confront him and as they announced, "Quincy Police", the driver fled, running down Warren Avenue.

Detective Powers quickly caught up to the driver and brought him to the ground with the assistance of Detective Glennon. After giving the driver his Miranda Rights to which he stated he understood, he was asked what he was doing in the Pathfinder and he just glared at the detectives. A search of the driver uncovered a handful of change and a sticker scraper with a razor blade attached to it. When asked if he was thinking of robbing someone earlier when he had his T-shirt tied around his head, the driver said, "S@#$ - you guys have been watching me for a while." Detective Glennon made contact with the owner of the Pathfinder, who confirmed that he keeps change for tolls and parking meters in the middle console.

The driver, a 28-year-old Cranston, R.I. resident, was charged with breaking and entering into a motor vehicle daytime, possessing burglarious tools - scraper w/ attached razor blade - suspended license and operating an unregistered motor vehicle.

NQ Girls Tennis Experiences Success This Season

By TOM JOYCE

The North Quincy High girls tennis team enjoyed a great deal of success under first year head coach Malory Devoe.

Under Devoe, who is a 2013 North Quincy High grad herself, the team went 14-6 this season and earned a spot in the MIAA Division 1 South Sectional playoffs. The No. 8 Red Raiders hosted No. 9 Barnstable at the Bishop Field Tennis Courts in Quincy June 4 and battled hard. Ultimately, they dropped the match 4-1, bringing their highly productive season to a close.

"The girls worked super hard," Davoe said. "They became a real team. They came together. Even though it was a tough match, they played well and had a great season."

"I honestly think our whole team fought so hard today," she added. "They all played phenomenally."

In the loss, the team's first singles player junior Lydia Chan had the lone victory for the Red Raiders. Her match went three sets, but she pulled out the win over Barnstable's top competitor.

Outside of her, the team could not come out on top in their sets, but they did have strong performances all year from up and down their lineup.

Senior Kayli Wu and junior Britney Zheng played second and third singles respectively. Davoe said that as a senior, Wu provided the team with great leadership skills and brought energy to the court on a daily basis—which served as a positive example for the younger players.

"They're our top players," Davoe said of the singles starters, "they really put the work in."

Davoe also said the team's doubles players, who were effectively first year varsity players, stepped up and shined as well. These pairings include seniors Akima Kuong and Angela Yang as well as sophomores Xing Yu Lin and Chloe Chin.

"It was awesome to see them grow and develop," Davoe said. "By the end of the season, they were really in a groove with each other."

Over the course of the season, the team continued improving on a daily basis. Although they got off to a respectable 3-2 start through their first five games, they had a dominant stretch thereafter. From their April 25 contest against Scituate, which they won 3-2 to their May 22 match against Pembroke, a 4-1 win, the Red Raiders won nine games in a row. To make matters better, all but one of those wins came in Patriot League competition.

"It's awesome," Davoe said of the team's success this season. "It comes and goes. It comes in waves. But it was an amazing first season. Besides all of the wins we had, they really came together as a team and they were so amazing as a group."

Over the course of the season, the Red Raiders showed they were capable of prevailing in tight matches. They played seven matches this season with a final score of 3-2—and they won five of them.

Needless to say, her first year coaching the team was a positive one for Davoe.

"Coaching this team is amazing," she said. "I love coaching it. I love having girls in Quincy who want to play tennis, especially since it's not the most popular sport."

The Red Raiders lose four seniors to graduation: Wu, Kuong, Yang and Reina

Cheng.

Even so, they will have some experience coming back next season, including four of the seven regulars from this year's starting lineup.

"We just want to work on building that team bond and really get the girls excited to be playing," Davoe said of next season. "Also, if anyone is interested in playing, they should come on down."

Net Gains For North Quincy Boys Tennis

By BRUCE MARQUIS

The visiting North Quincy Red Raiders lost a squeaker of a tennis match 3-2 to the Plymouth North Eagles June 4 in the first round of the Division I South state tournament.

With the contest tied 2-2 the outcome rested on the result of the second doubles match. Leading 4 games to 3 in the first set, North Quincy seniors Jason Chen and Joshua Dangora were unable to put that set away, eventually losing both sets 4-6 and 1-6 to juniors Harry Jenkins and Christian Gusman.

The high-flying Eagles, who were seeded sixth in their division, improved their season's record to 16-3 and moved on to the next round of the playoffs. The 11th seeded Raiders finished their outstanding season with a record of 14-6, while tying Hanover for the league tennis crown.

Once again led by all-star junior captain Shane Lerkvikarn the North Quincy "7" battled hard at the Plymouth North site. Since their facility only has 4 tennis courts, the second doubles match must wait until another match has been completed. When NQ senior captain Alex Atanassov fell in straight sets to the Eagles senior Harry Ayson, 1-6 and 2-6, Chen and Dangora took center stage to compete in the fateful match, finishing a good 20 minutes after all the others.

Lerkvikarn dispatched the Eagles' outstanding freshman Bobby Cooney 6-4 and 6-2. The son of Plymouth North assistant coach Bob Cooney, the freshman had earlier in the season pushed his senior brother Patrick out of the top spot he had held last season down to the number three singles slot.

Raiders' junior Payton McGaffigan, in possibly his best performance of the season, put the elder Cooney away in straight sets, 6-2 and 6-3, setting up the showdown in the second doubles contest. With Lerkvikarn and McGaffigan coming back for their senior seasons, North Quincy will be a formidable opponent for even the best of teams in the Patriot League in 2020.

The most surprising disappointment for the visiting squad was its inability to win the first doubles match. Raider seniors Adam Tiacoxolal and James Zheng had bested Plymouth North's first doubles couple in their previous meeting, but this time freshman Jack George and sophomore Tom

Ayson blunted the usual late match heroics by their opponents to prevail 6-4 and 6-2.

There were a few controversial plays during the matches, which depend on the good eyesight and veracity of the players as they are responsible for calling their adversaries' errors on their own side of the court. But, per usual, good sportsmanship and fairness prevailed.

Plymouth North head coach Steve Knigge was gracious in victory, praising his players while giving due appreciation for all the efforts of the Red Raiders. He expressed excitement about moving to the next round of the Division I South playoffs, possibly a dubious honor as he expected they would be facing off across the nets against the Newton North Tigers, a perennial tennis powerhouse.

North Quincy head coach Matt Ramponi emphasized that his players truly had "a blast" and that he took his hat off to them for their efforts, sacrifices and teamwork. He said, "They are a great group of kids on and off the court," and he was fortunate to have the opportunity to coach them. He emphasized the contributions of his five seniors and explained that he would be working with Lerkvikarn and McGaffigan to help rebuild the team. With only 5 junior varsity players from this year the squad will need some reinforcements. This provides an interesting opportunity for other North Quincy athletes who play other sports to try out tennis. Atanassov and Dangora were key players on the Raiders football team and McGaffigan is a key hockey and golf competitor for North Quincy High School.

Coach Ramponi was ebullient in his praise for his assistant coach Dan Wong who provided so much advice, support and inspiration to the players as well as the head coach. As an accomplished tennis player Coach Wong has a lot of credibility with the players and they look to him for guidance.

All is all it was a very successful year for North Quincy Boys Tennis, one that may be difficult to match is the near future. Nevertheless, the outstanding play of Lerkvikarn and McGaffigan will be worth watching and supporting.

Patrick Keohane Cements John Carroll Legacy With Historic Senior Season

By MAXWELL ARGENTO

Patrick Keohane entered his time at John Carroll University, University Heights, OH, as a smart, quiet kid from Quincy, and leaves now as one of the best baseball players, if not the best, in the history of the program.

Keohane finished his senior season with a .459 batting average, 68 hits, 46 runs scored and 39 RBIs from the leadoff spot. He also chipped in 15 doubles and 5 home runs, his slugging percentage finishing at .662.

Keohane's incredible season, especially at the plate, garnered a long list of awards and accolades throughout the year. He was named Ohio Athletic Conference (OAC) Hitter of the Week twice, he was awarded his third All-OAC First Team selection in a row, and was also given the OAC Player of the Year Award for the first time in his career for his efforts. Keohane is the first John Carroll player to ever be named Player of the Year in the OAC.

"Pat has had possibly the most decorated career of any hitter in the history of this program," said interim head coach Ryan Nordquist. "Being selected as the program's first ever OAC Player of the Year should definitely put him in the conversation as one of the greatest to ever wear the Blue and Gold."

As of recently, Keohane has added to his impressive list of honors, adding the following awards to his haul:

- D3Baseball.com All-Mideast Region First Team

PATRICK KEOHANE of Quincy recently finished his senior season at John Carroll University as one of the best baseball players in program history.

- D3Baseball.com All-Mideast Region Player of the Year

- ABCA/Rawlings All-Mideast Region First Team

- ABCA/Rawlings All-Mideast Region Player of the Year

All the more impressive is Keohane's inclusion onto the D3Baseball.com's All-American Third Team. The selection to an All-American team is the first of his career.

Keohane finishes his career in Blue and Gold with his name scattered atop or near the top of many offensive statistics in the program's record book. These are:

CAREER JOHN CARROLL ALL-TIME RANKINGS:

Highest batting avg.: 1st (398)

Most runs scored: 1st (148)

Most hits: 1st (217)

Most total bases: 2nd (313)

Most home runs: 3rd (14)

Beyond all of the stats

and the records and the awards, Patrick Keohane will be remembered at John Carroll as someone who always gave his best, was a leader in good times and in bad, and came to work every day looking to take his team to a championship. Those themes will remain synonymous with Patrick for much longer than his records ever will.

Keohane (PK) found his passion for baseball under the guidance of Rick Beach of Quincy, longtime baseball coach and mentor to hundreds of Quincy kids, then for Steve Maze at Morrisette Post-294 American Legion Baseball. During his high school years he played for Nick Argento, Steve Healey and Norm Walsh of Boston College High School, graduating in 2015.

Patrick is the son of John and Karen Keohane, and grandson of Ed and Joan Keohane and Jack and Dotty Wilk; all of Quincy.

After 6-2 Win Over Natick, NQ Softball Bows To BF

By TREVOR WENNERS

In do-or-die playoff games, teams rely on go-to players to step up.

Senior outfielder Sam Smith of the North Quincy High School softball team fit that bill on June 6, as she went 2 for 4 with a double, single and four RBIs, along with two impressive catches in center, during a 6-2 triumph at Natick in the preliminary round of the Division 1 South Sectional.

"I am already thinking about next year and how much I am going to be missing Sam," said Red Raiders first-year coach Liz Kelly. "In the field, she is unbelievable and she comes out of the middle of nowhere with those diving catches. Up at the plate, she is constantly a clutch hitter. I know when she is up there that she is going to do something good."

Unfortunately for NQ the tournament road ended Saturday as the 19th-seeded Red Raiders dropped a 19-0 decision to third-seeded Bishop Feehan (18-2) in Attleboro. North Quincy finished the season with a 12-10 record. It marked the third straight year North qualified for the Div. 1 South Tournament.

In addition to Smith's standout play in the third slot against Natick on June 6, junior ninth hitter Alexa Radzik was on base four times, going 2 for 2 with two singles, two walks and two runs. Senior starting pitcher Shannon O'Brien earned the complete-game win in the circle, giving up only one earned run on seven hits. She walked two and struck out one, while retiring the side in order during the third.

NQ's patience at the plate was tremendous, drawing 10 walks and reaching base five times on hit by pitches.

The 14th-seeded Redhaws (12-7) were led by a 2-for-4 effort by junior Marina Lyon (two singles, RBI). Sophomore starter

Katherine Canty was tagged with the loss in four innings, giving up four runs with three earned on two hits, while walking six, hitting four batters, and striking out two.

Each team made two errors in the field, while Natick led the hits category, 7-5.

NQ came out ready to play, loading the bases with two down in the top half of the first, but Katherine Canty was able to strike-out Raiders freshman Orla O'Driscoll swinging to get out of the jam.

Once again in the second, the visitors juiced the bases with two down. This time, it was Smith stepping into the batter's box, as the senior standout laced a two-run single to center, scoring junior Olivia Peluso and senior Meghan Greene for the early 2-0 lead.

O'Brien started to get into a rhythm in the second and third, retiring five straight batters, which was aided by Smith's highlight-reel diving catch in right-center to end the third. Also, sophomore catcher Ciara O'Connor gunned out a runner at third on an attempted steal to end the second.

"O'Brien was able to keep her composure and just focus on the batter at hand," said Kelly. "The girls really came out ready to play with a lot of energy. The fielders were solid with everyone hustling. Ashley Caldwell over at third base was really solid. Our whole left side stopped a lot, which really helped in this game."

In the fourth, the Raiders were back on the attack, putting two on with no outs, as a result of a walk drawn by Radzik, and Greene reached on an error. O'Brien then laid down a perfectly executed sacrifice bunt, advancing two runners into scoring position with one down. Two batters later, the unit went up 3-0 on an RBI by Caldwell during a hit by pitch. During the ensuing at-bat, Greene scored an unearned run on a wild pitch, pushing the lead up to 4-0.

The Raiders showed a great deal of mental toughness, getting out of jams in the fourth and fifth. With runners on first and second and one out in the fourth, Redhaws senior captain Marie Canty hit a sharp ground ball to third, and Caldwell was able to turn the 5-3 double play to end the inning. In the fifth, O'Brien was able to force a pop out by Lyon with the bases loaded and two outs, keeping NQ up 4-0.

The Red Raiders started running away with the game in the sixth. Radzik led off with a walk, and then with one down, O'Brien singled through the right side. Smith once again came to the dish in a big spot and delivered, smashing a two-run double to the gap in right-center, extending NQ's cushion to 6-0.

"Throughout the year, we have had trouble laying off bad pitches," said Kelly. "On Thursday, we did a really good job of being patient with the bat and waiting for their pitchers to come to us."

Natick ended the scoring with a run in the sixth and seventh. Marie Canty scored an unearned run with two down in the sixth on an error by the shortstop. Redhaws senior captain Calla Murphy ripped a one-out triple to left-center in the seventh, and then scored during the ensuing at-bat on an RBI single to right by Lyon, trimming NQ's advantage down to 6-2.

Freshman relief pitcher Juliana Kiley pitched the final three innings for the hosts. She started strong with a 1-2-3 fifth inning, and then gave up two earned runs in the sixth. Kiley gave up three hits, walked four, hit one batter, and struck out one.

Kids' Fest June 29 At Wollaston Beach

The Friends of Wollaston Beach will host Kids' Fest Saturday, June 29 from 1 to 4 p.m. on Wollaston Beach between the Joseph Brett Bath House and Wollaston Yacht Club.

The event will feature a series of age-appropriate inflatables, 5 in 1 Sports Center, Gaga ball, glitter tattoos, face painting, prizes, and a DJ with music to facilitate games and dancing.

The Kids' Fest will also include:

- Touch tank with Save the Harbor's Youth Environmental Education Program staff.

- Changing Course, an interactive art activity with environmental artist Robyn Reed who takes an innovative approach to recycling by using plastic water bottles collected from the region's beaches and waterfront to create art installations that transform this reclaimed plastic waste into an interactive representation of marine life.

- Performers from the Boston Circus Guild - including an aerialist, hula hooper, and an acrobat pair.

- A costumed storyteller who will be bringing to life Eleanor Creesy who was the navigator on the clipper ship Flying Cloud which set the record for fastest voyage from New York City to San Francisco around the tip of South America - a record that held for more than 135 years.

RELIGION

Trinity Sunday At Quincy Point Congregational Church

Trinity Sunday and Father's Day will be observed at the 10 a.m. worship service Sunday at Quincy Point Congregational Church, 444 Washington St., Quincy.

Rev. Kimberly Murphy is preaching. The sanctuary is air conditioned and accessible to all with designated parking and an elevator via the Abbey Road side of the building. Non-perishable food items to be delivered to Interfaith Social Services will be collected today. After worship gather in the downstairs Social Hall for coffee, light refreshments and fellowship.

A one-room Summer Sunday School is available during the summer months and starts on June 16. Bring your child to the children's room across from the kitchen and elevator before 10 a.m. worship on summer Sundays. The teachers this year are Angelina DeCristofaro and Lauren Kearns.

Interested in a Summer Book club? All members of QPCC are invited to participate in a church-wide book club. Club members will be reading and discussing, "Weird Church: Welcome to the Twenty-First Century."

Books are $15 a piece and will be sold on June 23 and June 30. There will be an outline to follow and discussions will take place twice a month after worship. Any questions contact Rev. Kim at: revkim@quincypointcongreg.org or call the church office @ 617-773-6424.

Everyone, especially young families, is invited to a trip to The Trillside Museum in the Blue Hills (Mass Audubon) on Sunday, June 23. Participants will arrive at 12:15 p.m. The program includes touring the outdoor exhibits, feeding ducks (with the correct food), and taking photographs, which will serve to inspire illustrations for Rev. Ann Suzedell's (the former pastor of QPCC) newest children's book about The Trillside Museum.

At 1 p.m. there will be an "Animal Encounter." A staff member will introduce two resident owls who live at the museum. This trip will focus on birds, especially owls, and their habitats. Groups/carpools are leaving from QPCC (meeting in the kitchen after worship) or for those who wish to meet at The Trillside Museum: take Route 128/93 to exit 2B Milton. Follow 138 North for 1/2 mile. You will see the large parking lot on the right, (this is also the parking lot for the ski area). Trillside Museum is at the foot of Great Blue Hill.

OBITUARIES

Richard P. Brooks, Sr.

A funeral Mass for Richard P. "Dick" Brooks, Sr., a Quincy resident for over 50 years and formerly of Dorchester, was celebrated Wednesday in Sacred Heart Church, Wednesday.

Mr. Brooks died in peace on June 6 after a long battle to recover from injuries and illness he suffered in a car accident nine years ago.

Born in Boston, he was raised in Dorchester and was the son of the late John Patrick and Josephine (Emery) Brooks. He attended local schools and graduated from Dorchester High School with the Class of 1958.

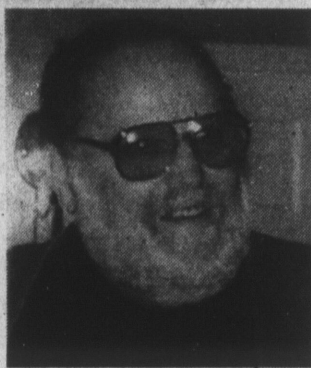

Mr. Brooks worked at Honeywell as a marketing executive for 30 years. Later in life, he worked for Pennsylvania Steel Company at the Fore River Shipyard. He also worked as a Securitas security guard at State Street Bank for ten years, retiring at 70 years old. Mr. Brooks always loved to work, and it is something he missed very much after his car accident.

He enjoyed camping in his seasonal trailer in the Lakes Region of New Hampshire. While at his trailer, he loved fishing, golfing, sitting around the campfire, attending the Nascar Races, and Bike Week in Lacomia. Above all, Mr. Brooks loved spending time with his family, especially his three grandchildren and his great-grandson. His grandchildren, Lauren ("Buffy"), Michael ("Mikey"), Madeline ("Maddy"), and Luke ("Lukey") were truly the light of his life.

Mr. Brooks also loved to travel. He often talked about his trip to Bermuda and Niagara Falls with his beloved wife, his surprise trip to Ireland for his 60th birthday with his three children, trips to Canada and Lake Placid for his grandson's hockey games and his many trips to Florida with his family and dear brothers Bobby and Jack.

Mr. Brooks was also an avid lifelong sports fan, especially of the New England Patriots and the Boston Red Sox. He often told the story of being at the famous 1975 Red Sox World Series game and he loved any chance he got to go to Fenway Park.

Mr. Brooks will always be remembered for his wonderful sense of humor, heart of gold, genuine kindness, and unbelievable strength to overcome adversity. He was a true survivor and his strong unwavering faith was an inspiration to all who knew him.

His motto in life was, "Faith, Family and Friends." He had a special devotion to the Blessed Mother and prayed the Rosary daily. His advice to friends and family would be, "Say three Hail Mary's and things will get better."

He was the beloved husband of the late Diane (Dauphinee) Brooks, who died in 1989. Together they shared many years of loving marriage. He was the loving father of Richard Brooks and his wife Tracey of North Quincy, Stephen Brooks and his partner Lina Moscone of Marlborough, Suzanne Mammone and her husband John of Marshfield. He was the cherished grandfather of Lauren & Michael Brooks of North Quincy and Madeline Mammone of Marshfield. He was the proud great grampa to Luke Brooks of North Quincy. He was the dear brother of his Irish twin, Robert Brooks of Weymouth and his late wife Lorelyn, Donna O'Neil and her partner Eliot Somers of FL, the late John P. Brooks Sr. and his late wife Lorraine, the late William E. Brooks Sr. and his surviving wife Donna of Cohasset, the late Joseph L. Brooks Sr. and his surviving wife Anita of Cohasset. He was the dear brother-in-law of the late Priscilla Dauphinee, Paula Genson and Edward O'Neil. He is also survived by many loving nieces, nephews and lifelong friends.

Interment at Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Funeral arrangements were made by Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy.

Memorial donations may be made to the Amyloidosis Foundation at secure.qgiv.com/for/amyfound/.

Ralph E. Elwood, 73

A celebration of the life of Ralph E. Elwood, 73, will be held June 23 at 3 p.m. in VFW Post 1702, Braintree.

Mr. Elwood died June 3 after a courageous battle with cancer, surrounded by his loving family.

He was born in Concord, NC, and was the son of the late Rev. Ralph G. Elwood and Helen Furr Elwood. He leaves behind his wife of 51 years Barbara and his children Dawn Ciardi and her husband Joseph of Norwell, Barbra Leahy of Hingham, Theresa Elwood of Quincy and Justin Elwood of Quincy. He was an adoring grandfather to Michael, Sarah, Andrew, Haley, Emily and Braidy and great-grandfather to Micah. He is also survived by his sister Carol "Sue" Branch and his brother James "Ronnie" Elwood, both in North Carolina as well as many nieces and nephews.

Mr. Elwood was a Vietnam veteran who served for many years in the United States Navy and the National Guard. Following his military service, he continued to give his time to his community. For over a decade he dedicated himself to Quincy Youth Baseball as a coach, league president and umpire. One of his greatest joys was coaching his children Theresa and Justin. Later, Mr. Elwood served as commander of the Braintree VFW Post, which enabled him to follow his passion for advocating for veterans in the community.

To those who knew him, Mr. Elwood will be remembered for his great sense of humor, infectious laugh, gift of story-telling, beloved southern drawl and kind heart. He was a devoted son, husband, father, grandfather, uncle, brother and friend.

Funeral arrangements were made by Hamel-Lydon Chapel & Cremation Service of Massachusetts, 650 Hancock St., Quincy.

Memorial donations may be made to the Gary Sinise Foundation, PO Box 368, Woodland Hills, CA 91365 or VFW Post 1702, 356 Washington St., Braintree, MA 02184.

Geraldine A. Polimeno

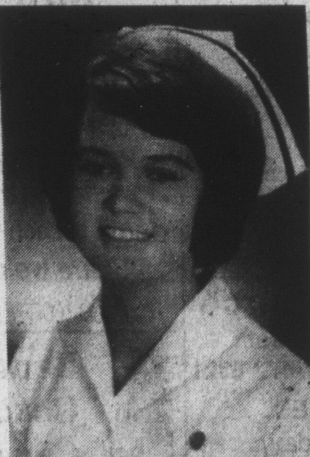

A Mass of Christian Burial for Geraldine A. (Ywoskus) Polimeno of Quincy will be celebrated Thursday at 10:30 a.m. in Sacred Heart Church, Quincy.

Mrs. Polimeno died unexpectedly June 7 at 8 a.m. in her own bed.

She was the daughter of John and Aldona Ywoskus of South Boston. She leaves behind her husband of 52 years, Stephen P. Polimeno, her older brother Anthony Ywoskus and his wife Peggy, her younger brother John Ywoskus, his wife Julie, and their three sons Michael, Chris, and David. Michael Ywoskus is her Godchild.

Mrs. Polimeno spent her earlier life as a resident of South Boston. Her birthday was March 15 and she enjoyed many of her birthdays at her brother's home in Southie celebrating St. Patrick's Day. She spent most of her life as a registered nurse caring for others in many environments.

During the last few years, Mrs. Polimeno had an assortment of medical situations. We thought that the worst was behind her.

GERALDINE A. POLIMENO

There are many other relatives and friends that will miss Mrs. Polimeno. They are not listed here so as not leave any one unrecognized. Those that knew Mrs. Polimeno and loved her will keep her in their minds and prayers. To say that she will be missed is an understatement.

Visitation was Thursday from 9 to 10 a.m. in Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy.

Interment at Knollwood Memorial Park, Canton.

Memorial donations may be made to the American Cancer Society or the American Heart Association.

Alfred J. Grazioso, 98

A funeral Mass for Alfred J. "Al" Grazioso, 98, of Quincy was celebrated Tuesday in St. John the Baptist Church, Quincy.

Mr. Grazioso died peacefully June 6 at the Dwyer Home in Weymouth.

Born in Quincy, he was the son of the late Carmine and Carmina (Seracina) Grazioso. Mr. Grazioso attended local schools and graduated from the Quincy High Trade School, Class of 1939, before entering the apprenticeship program for Bethlehem Steele at Fore River Shipyard. Mr. Grazioso enlisted into the United States Army Air Corps at the beginning of WWII. He was a member of the 351st Bomb Group and the 509th Bomb Squadron as part of the European Theatre. He was honorably discharged on September 27, 1945.

After his honorable discharge, Mr. Grazioso went back to work at the Fore River Shipyard where he was the supervisor of the Sheet Metal Department. He later started his own business as owner and operator of the Shoppers Personal Service Furniture Company on Canal Street in Boston and then later Marty's Furniture, where he worked until his retirement at age 93. Mr. Grazioso enjoyed his work and the relationships he fostered throughout the years.

He was a man of great faith and lived his life in accordance with the Christian virtues of faith, hope and charity. He was devoted to Our Lord and Our Lady and was a lifelong communicant of St. John the Baptist Church in Quincy, where he ushered for many years. He had a special affinity for the Blessed Mother and prayed his Rosary daily. Mr. Grazioso was also a longtime member of the Knights of Columbus.

He was a kind, loving, selfless and dedicated person. There wasn't anything he wouldn't do for the people he loved. His family, children, grandchildren and great granddaughter are what gave him most enjoyment in life and they made him very proud. His legacy continues through his family as they share all that Al taught them through example and life lessons. Mr. Grazioso will be missed by all the lives he touched.

He was the beloved husband of the late Helen L. (Gavaza) Grazioso, who died in 2016. The two shared 70 years of loving marriage. He was the devoted father of Holly Powers and her husband Warren of Naples, FL, Ken Grazioso and his wife Melody of Gainesville, FL, Mary-ellen Schwartz and her husband Ed of Cary, NC, Al Grazioso and his wife Cathie of Quincy and Liz Barry and her husband Tim of Raleigh, NC. He was the loving grandfather of Nicole Kanzler and her husband Ryan of Quincy, Matt Grazioso and his fiancée Mary Elizabeth Miller of Quincy, Kristen and her husband Michael Christopher of Dorchester, D.J. Auld of Portland, OR, Deirdre Auld of Boston, Jacqueline Barry of Raleigh, NC, Megan Barry of Raleigh, NC, Christopher Barry and his wife Laura of Austin, TX, and Jason Zittel of Gainesville, FL. He was the loving great-grandfather of his "little doll" Cora Kanzler of Quincy. Mr. Grazioso is also survived by many loving nieces and nephews. He was preceded in death by his four siblings.

Interment with military honors at Mount Wollaston Cemetery, Quincy.

Funeral arrangements were made by Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy.

Memorial donations may be made to Daughters of Mary of Nazareth, P.O. Box 690789, Quincy, MA 02269.

Priscilla A. Smith, 78

A celebration of life for Priscilla A. Smith, 78, of Holbrook, formerly of Squantum, will be held at 10 a.m. Friday in Cartwright Funeral Home, Holbrook.

Mrs. Smith died peacefully May 30 surrounded by her loving family.

She was the wife of Stanley J. Smith and mother of Beth Cronin of Madison, NH and Kim Quinlivan of Medway. She is also survived by her son-in-law Joe Quinlivan and four grandchildren, James, Jackie, Sean and Pat. She is predeceased by her son-in-law Joe Cronin.

Memorial donations may be made to Newton Wellesley Center for Alzheimer's Care, Activities Fund, 694 Worcester St., Wellesley, MA 02482.

DOROTHY V. EVERETT

dear grandmother of Danielle Marr, Joshua Adam Hall, Cassandra L. Everett, Hannah E. Everett; great-grandmother of Kelly Marr and Taylor Cope; sister of the late Evelyn (Reed) Warren, William Reed, Jr., Stella (Reed) Goss, Mitzie (Reed) Dicks Arthur Reed, Walter Reed and Peart (Reed) Hancock; and is also survived by many nieces and nephews.

Interment at Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Funeral arrangements were made by the Dennis Sweeney Funeral Home, 74 Elm St., Quincy.

Memorial donations may be made to the Central Baptist Church, 67 Washington St., Quincy, MA 02169.

Joseph T. Birch V

A memorial service for Joseph Thomas Birch V will be held Saturday at 11 a.m. in the Congregational Church of Hollis, N.H.

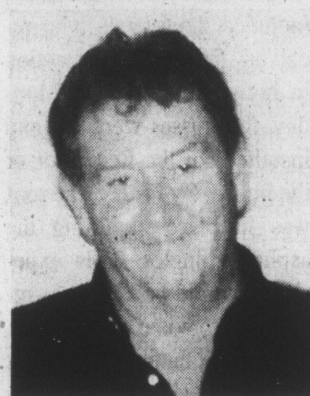

Mr. Birch, always a bit too optimistic for his own good, died June 5 after having struggled with Parkinson's disease and dementia for over three years.

He was born in Quincy on Oct. 12, 1943, the son of Joseph Thomas Birch IV and Ann (Halloran) Birch. He grew up in Quincy and graduated from Quincy High School in 1961 where he was captain of the football team, and where he later was inducted into the Quincy High School Football Hall of Fame.

Mr. Birch played semi-pro football after high school and received a football scholarship to American International College. Injuries on the field forced him to drop out of college and Mr. Birch moved to Cambridge. He enrolled in extension courses at Harvard, studying psychology and religion, and eventually became a degree candidate in the extension program, only to be called by the spirit of entrepreneurship.

By 1967 he had started selling used bicycles to Harvard students from his back yard off Central Square, and he turned this venture into The Bicycle Revival, a chain of 19 stores along the East Coast. He revived the use of sandwich board signs for advertising, hiring students and hippies to wear them in Harvard Square. He sold the business in 1972 to an Italian bicycle manufacturer and moved to New Hampshire with his first wife Sue (Hildreth) Birch, where they raised four children with Mr. Birch's unique sense of zest, risk and adventure.

Mr. Birch loved being an entrepreneur and loved being in the woods. After he moved to New Hampshire he was involved in logging, firewood and timber sales, sand and gravel excavation, and land development. For many years he went by "The Firewood Emperor of New England" and "Butcher Birch," and he was featured on the Today Show and in the Boston Globe, Yankee Magazine, and Newsweek. During the 1980s, he had a regular spot on the Charles Laquidara show on WBCN-FM, where he added some local flavor and gave tips on home energy-saving. He enjoyed creating unique advertising campaigns and had a personal cartoonist for a number of years who helped him build a larger-than-life persona.

His career took many turns, from the rent-to-own used car business, to searching for shipwrecks in the Bahamas, to logging with workhorses in the woods of Michigan and New Hampshire. As a teenager, he was a golf caddy for members of the Kennedy family on Cape Cod, and in college he worked as an aide at McLean Hospital, where he befriended the poet Robert Lowell.

He was unorthodox, imaginative, creative, and like his father before him, could "talk a hungry dog off a meat-wagon." Mr. Birch had a sharp mind, loved to debate and invent, and made fast friends, and likely a handful of foes, everywhere he went. He wrote poetry and a book on nutrition, studied myth, politics and theology, and could play the piano by ear. He was proud of his Irish ancestry, and as the fifth Joseph Thomas Birch in his family, was proud to see his son and grandson also carry his name.

A mountain of a man, he had both a mighty spirit and a great athleticism and strength, walking up a flight of stairs on his hands and saving at least four people from drowning. His family imagines some of his favorite memories were being carried off the football field after a big game, and Christmas Eves when his kids were young, when he staged performances by "Santa" worthy of Broadway. He loved his children and grandchildren deeply and loved to travel the world. Many agree that Mr. Birch lived a hundred lifetimes in one, and life around him made for a wild, colorful, and entertaining ride.

Mr. Birch is survived by his five children, Anna Birch and her husband Chris Volpe of Hollis, Joseph Birch VI of Hollis and Singer Island, Fla., Sarah Birch of Hollis, and Samuel Quincy Birch and his wife Elizabeth of Hollis, and Daniel Birch of Estonia. He is also survived by ten grandchildren, Amanda, Joseph VII, Jarrell, Jackson, Henry, Charlotte, Martin, Isaac, Max, and Colin. He also leaves behind his former wife Sue (Hildreth) Birch of Hollis and his three siblings, Mary Williams and her husband George of Norwell; Joann Bateman and her husband Robert of Scituate; and Robert Birch and his wife Gail of Scituate. He also leaves behind his second former wife Olga Birch of Estonia, and many cousins, nieces and nephews, including his very close cousin Elizabeth Duane of Scituate.

The family requests that in lieu of flowers, you befriend a stranger, read a poem, or do something outrageous and follow Mr. Birch's philosophy that it's easier to ask for forgiveness than permission.

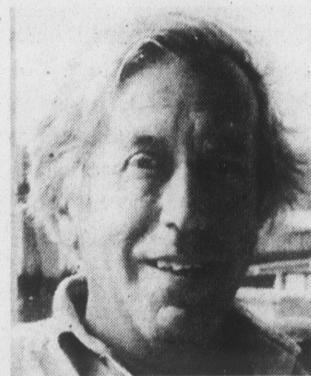

Funeral arrangements were made by the Cremation Society of New Hampshire.

George T. Douse, 77

A funeral service for George T. Douse, age 77, of Quincy will be held Thursday at 10 a.m. in the Alfred D. Thomas Funeral Home, Milton.

Mr. Douse died Sunday at home.

Born and raised in Dorchester, he graduated from Dorchester High School and had lived in Quincy since 1995. Mr. Douse was affiliated with CityLiving Real Estate in Dorchester for many years.

GEORGE T. DOUSE

Beloved life partner of 45 years of Emanuel P. Carreiro. Son of the late George

V. and Mary C. Douse. Brother of Marylou Douse. Cousin of Thomas, Lawrence, and Maryann Donahue. Brother in law of Espirito Santo Carreiro, Teresa Cabral, Virginia Pimentel, Susan Cabral Bicudo and Helena Rainha. Godfather of Mark Cabral.

Visiting hours are 8 to 10 a.m. Thursday in the funeral home.

Interment at Cedar Grove Cemetery, Dorchester.

Kirk Yanefski, 86

A funeral for Kirk Yanefski, 86, of Quincy was held Tuesday in Hamel-Lydon Chapel & Cremation Service of Mass., 650 Hancock St., Quincy.

Mr. Yanefski died June 5.

Born in what is now known as Macedonia, Mr. Yanefski served in the Yugoslavian Air Force before immigrating to the U.S. in the early 1950s. He became an American citizen and returned to his homeland to meet and marry his bride, Helen. They settled in Quincy in 1979.

Mr. Yanefski made his career as a professional waiter in the foodservice industry. He worked for many years at Café Amalfi and Athens Olympian Restaurant as a member of the Hotel and Restaurant Workers Union Local #26. He retired in 1994.

In his spare time, he enjoyed taking long walks and tending to the tomatoes, peppers, cucumbers and other plants in his vegetable garden.

He was the husband of 54 years to Helen J. (Atanasova) Yanefski. Father of Kenny Yanefski of Quincy and George Yanefski of West Yarmouth. He was the brother in law of Nikola Atanasov and his wife Carol of Woburn and Kiro Atanasov and his wife Sarah of Saugus. Also survived by nieces, nephews and extended family.

Interment at Pine Hill Cemetery, Quincy.

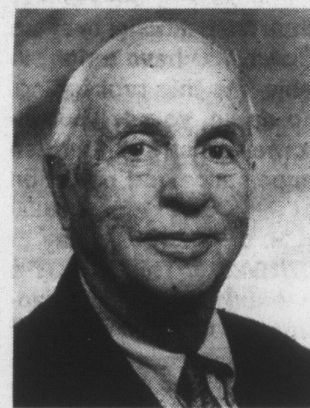

Memorial donations may be made to the American Cancer Society, 3 Speen St., Suite 250, Framingham, MA 01701.

Dr. Lewis E. Braverman

Dr. Lewis E. Braverman of Boston, formerly of Quincy, died Monday.

Beloved husband of Miriam (Gargill). Devoted father of Daniel Braverman of Brookline and William Braverman of Scarsdale, NY. Loving grandfather of Sasha, Anna, James, Kate and Eve.

Quincy College, Curry Joint Criminal Justice Admissions Program

Quincy College and Curry College announce a new joint admissions Criminal Justice program.

As part of this collaborative program, Quincy College students who intend to complete an associate's degree in Criminal Justice at Quincy College will be conditionally accepted to the Curry College's Division of Continuing and Graduate Studies for a Criminal Justice baccalaureate program. The first joint admissions cohort is expected to begin this fall.

'Pride Shabbat' Service

In honor of LGBT Pride Month in June, Congregation Beth Shalom of the Blue Hills will hold a Pride Shabbat Friday evening service on Friday, June 14th at 7:45 p.m. This also will be a Musical Shabbat Service with guitarist/singer David Wesson, and it is open to the entire community.

Join the congregation for its first Pride Kabbalat Shabbat, celebrating equality and inclusion of lesbian, gay, bisexual, asexual, transgender and questioning Jews, friends, families and allies, and recognizing the 50th anniversary of the Stonewall Uprising.

The Stonewall "riots" were a series of spontaneous, violent demonstrations by members of the gay community against a police raid that took place in the early may apply to the joint admissions program during their first two semesters at Quincy College and are required to complete the Associate Degree in Criminal Justice with a cumulative grade point average of 2.0 or better and earn 90 credits to be transferred to morning hours of June 28, 1969, at the Stonewall Inn in Greenwich Village in New York City

For security purposes, non-members are asked to call or email the congregation office at 617-298-3394 or e-mail office@BethShalom-BlueHills.org.

Congregation Beth Shalom of the Blue Hills is located at 18 Shoolman Way (off Lodge Street) in Milton. There is limited parking available, with overflow parking on nearby Pleasant Street. Parking is prohibited on Cross and Maitland Streets.

For more information about CBSBH activities, visit www.BethShalomBlueHills.org.

Curry College toward a baccalaureate degree. Participants in this joint admissions program effectively enter Curry College as a senior to complete their final year of study.

"The Criminal Justice field is ever-changing. Leaders in the field are law enforcers, community resources, and human service collaborators, who support community discussions and problem solving in the communities in which they serve. At Quincy College, we are developing interdisciplinary ways to educate the next generation of criminal justice professionals. Quincy College empowers students to pursue higher education at every level," said Quincy College President Michael Bellotti.

"As entry level education requirements increase for career advancement in Criminal Justice and the related fields, Quincy College has sought to establish articulation agreements creating pathways for our students, expanding, enhancing and improving educational opportunities, and career outlook for graduates. We are excited to work with Curry College for this joint admissions program which will become a model for future pathway partnerships," Bellotti said.

A private four-year college located in Milton, with a campus in Plymouth, Curry College provides undergraduate, graduate, and continuing education students with a rich, career-focused liberal arts curriculum and an empowering, supportive environment that prepares all students for success. Curry offers its Criminal Justice students unparalleled experiential learning and access to internships with major law-enforcement agencies in the region.

Lighthouse Fellowship Church

By BEN FEEHAN

By any measure, the recent Mission Trip to North Carolina was a great success.

The goal was to spend a week there working with Habitat for Humanity in building homes for those in need. A team of six from Lighthouse Fellowship Church went down in mid-May to join with others in this work.

The team from Lighthouse included three teens who received first-hand instruction in house building. On Monday, the trusses were cut and installed for the first floor of the house. By Friday, the roof was in place including the asphalt shingles. This experience would be close to impossible to come by at home. They were taught how to cut and install all sorts of wood framing.

Just to see the house take shape and to gain an understanding of what the construction of a house entails was, in itself, a life lesson. In addition, they learned the importance of taking orders and working with others.

Before the team left for the return trip, they had the opportunity to meet the family that will live in the new house. To see the joy of that family made it all worthwhile.

With this trip complete, our Missions committee turned its attention to the next Mission Trip headed to Athens, Greece in July. Many displaced refugees from various countries have found themselves in Athens. The focus of this trip will be to serve the needs of these refugees.

All this as we live out the Gospel as spelled out in Matthew: "Whatsoever you do for the least of my brothers, that you do unto me."

Flag Day Celebration Kicks Off 50 Days Of 'Free'dom

Starting with the Quincy Flag Day Celebration on Saturday, June 15, Discover Quincy is partnering with many local organizations to showcase Quincy's arts and culture, community, historic and recreational assets during its 50 Days of "Free'dom event series.

Each day will feature at least one free event, while some events may accept donations and others may have an admission fee.

Each Monday, in collaboration with the City of Quincy, a free outdoor movie will be shown on the Hancock Adams Common starting with the 80's classic Goonies on June 17. There's a mix of family friendly flicks including Disney's Mary Poppins Returns, Grease Sing a Long and American Experience: John & Abigail Adams.

Each Tuesday, the City of Quincy Recreation Department and Thomas Crane Public Library partner for Tot Lot Tuesdays on Wollaston Beach. The June 18 storytime features Rick Goldin. For over 20 years Rick Goldin's lively, interactive and humorous children's songs have made him one of the most popular children's entertainers in New England. Children love his live performances because they get to sing, dance and jump along with Rick and his singing animal puppets.

Each Wednesday afternoon, Stop & Shop Headquarters in Quincy Center hosts a lunchtime concert series and in the evening, Discover Quincy and the Friends of Wollaston Beach host a concert at 6 p.m. starting June 19 with The Dredsox; a good time band covering a wide of music styles with original and cover songs with plenty of audience participation and lots of smiles.

"When we started the Wolly Wednesday concert series four years ago, people would sit along the seawall and each year the audience grew. Now we see multi-generation families and groups of friends come every week with their beach chairs and picnic dinners. We hope residents and visitors appreciate the improved conditions of Wollaston Beach and we see the use increase," said Margaret Laforest, executive director of Discover Quincy and co-founder of the beach concerts.

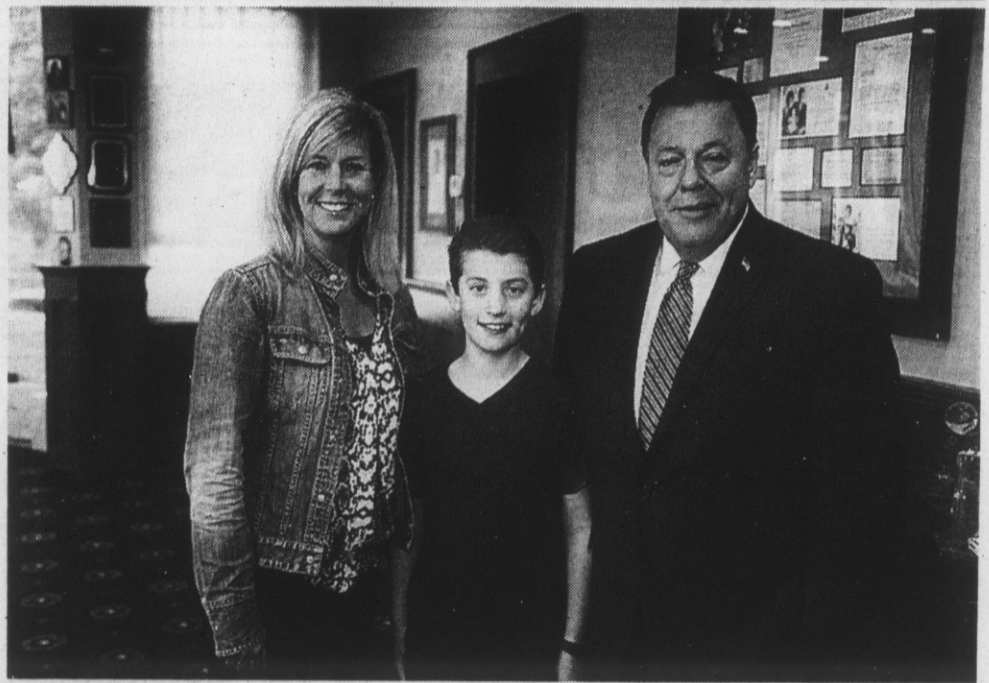

Marina Bay has a new monthly Sunday Funday event series. Experience the beauty of the boardwalk, local vendors, music, and games at their Father Figure themed event on June 16.

Adams National Historical Park celebrates Fathers Day with a special program and on June 17th they commemorate the Battle of Bunker Hill with a free one hour tour titled Bunker Hill to Penn's Hill.

"Discover Quincy is pleased to showcase over 150 free events happening in Quincy this summer and support over 70 program partners including Adams National Historical Park, Adams Crypt at United First Parish Church, Arts Affair Marina Bay, Blue Hill Adventure & Quarry Museum, Blue Hill Observatory and Science Center, Blue Hills Trailside Museum, Boston Cannons, City of Quincy, Dorothy Quincy Homestead, Friends of the Blue Hills, Friends of the Thomas Crane Library, Friends of Wollaston Beach, John Adams Health Walk, Josiah Quincy House, Lipton Cup Regatta, Quincy Art Association, Quincy Bay Race Week Association, Quincy Chamber of Commerce, Quincycles, Quincy Farmers Market, Quincy Historical Society, Quincy Quarry & Granite Workers Museum, Save the Harbor/Save the Bay, Showboat Cruises, South Shore School of Theater, Thomas Crane Public Library, USS Salem," Laforest said.

For more information, visit DiscoverQuincy.com event calendar, the Discover Quincy Facebook event page and download our printable schedule of events.

Movie Series Starts Monday On Hancock-Adams Common

The City of Quincy and Discover Quincy are sponsoring a free, family friendly outdoor movie series on the Hancock-Adams Common, 1305 Hancock St., on Mondays in conjunction with the 50 Days of "Free'dom program series.

Movies begin at dusk, approximately 8:15 p.m. and are held weather permitting. Bring your own blanket and chair. Free parking at the Coddington Building, 34 Coddington St., Quincy Center. For more information, visit DiscoverQuincy.com event calendar or Facebook page.

The movie schedule:

• June 17 ~ Goonies - Come watch this 80's classic! When Mikey, stumbles upon a mysterious map to a treasure of a famed pirate "One-Eyed" Willie, The Goonies embark on an adventure to find the treasure and save their neighborhood while staying one step head of the Fratellis while avoiding a system of traps.

• June 24 ~ Spiderman: Into the Spider-verse - Miles Morales is a New York teen struggling with school, friends and, on top of that, being the new Spider-Man. When he comes across Peter Parker, the erstwhile saviour of New York, in the multiverse, Miles must train to become the new protector of his city.

• July 1 ~ American Experience: John and Abigail Adams, The Original Power Couple - John Adams was brilliant, argumentative, sometimes irascible. Abigail Adams was a savvy observer of the tumultuous political scene, not afraid to speak her mind in an age when women were excluded from politics. Together they forged one of the greatest partnerships in American history.

• July 8 ~ Mary Poppins Returns - Decades after her original visit, the magical nanny returns to help the Banks siblings and Michael's children through a difficult time in their lives. Through her unique magical skills, and with the aid of her friend Jack, she helps the family rediscover the joy and wonder missing in their lives.

• July 15 ~ Grease: Sing a Long - A musical about teens in love in the 50's! It's California 1959 and greaser Danny Zuko and Australian Sandy Olsson are in love. They spend time at the beach, and when they go back to school, what neither of them knows is that they both now attend Rydell High. Have you ever been to a film musical and had the uncontrollable urge to burst into song? ... Then just sit back and watch Danny & Sandy and the gang, while singing (and dancing) along to the lyrics on the screen.

• July 22 ~ How To Train Your Dragon: The Hidden World - As Hiccup fulfills his dream of creating a peaceful dragon utopia, Toothless' discovery of an untamed, elusive mate draws the Night Fury away. When danger mounts at home and Hiccup's reign as village chief is tested, both dragon and rider must make impossible decisions to save their kind.

• July 29 ~ Ralph Breaks The Internet - Taking place six years after saving the arcade from Turbo's vengeance, the Sugar Rush arcade cabinet has broken, forcing Ralph and Vanellope to travel to the Internet via the newly-installed Wi-Fi router in Litwak's Arcade to retrieve the piece capable of saving the game.

Public Invited To Friends Of Wollaston Beach Cleanup June 22

The public is invited to join the Friends of Wollaston Beach (FWB) on Saturday, June 22 from 9 to 11 a.m. across from 861 Quincy Shore Dr. for a joint cleanup with whales.org.

Volunteers will clean a stretch of beach one-half mile north of Tony's Clam Shop and one-half mile south of Tony's. Like FWB's cleanup for Coastsweep, volunteers will catalog each item in order to more clearly define what is washing up on our beaches, and seek solutions to mitigate the damage done. Watch the Sun for details of the 2019 Coastsweep in September.

After the cleanup, join in the fun at Marina Bay at 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. for the New England Whale Festival. Sponsored by Cisco Brewers of Nantucket, this event has something for the entire family. The festival features exhibits promoting marine conservation and boater education, with onsite marine mammal scientists, kids' activities, free boat rides, and the debut of a life-sized North Atlantic right whale.

This free festival takes place rain or shine, is dog friendly, and fun for everyone. Those over 21 who participate in the morning cleanup on Wollaston Beach will receive a voucher for a beer at the Cisco pop-up at Marina Bay.

Bill Dunn Memorial Road Race June 29

The Bill Dunn Jr. Memorial Road Race will be held Saturday, June 29 in Houghs Neck.

The event is a great time for friends and family of Bill Dunn Jr. to gather in honor of his life and share memories with each other. This is the 13th year the road race is being held, and each year the participation and support is remarkable.

Registration for the event will begin at 7 a.m. at the St. Thomas Aquinas Hall on Darrow Street. Those interested can participate in a five-mile run or two-mile walk beginning at 9 a.m. Cash prizes will be awarded for first place male/female runner and first place Houghs Neck resident male/female runner. Awards given to 1st, 2nd and 3rd runners in each age group.

The first 300 people to register will receive a free race t-shirt. Race proceeds benefit the Bill Dunn Jr. Memorial Scholarship, which has provided scholarships to Quincy High students, donations to Children's Hospital, Manets Youth Football and other local organizations.

The registration fee is $35 for runners and $25 for walkers until June 20th, then fee is $40 to run and $30 to walk; children walking are free. Registration forms are available online at rememberb.com and can be mailed to Bill Dunn Jr. Memorial Road Race, 105 Edgewater Dr., Quincy, MA 02169. Participants can also register online at racewire.com.

For more information, contact Margaret Dunn at 617-471-9075.

Quincy History Corps Volunteer Job Fair June 13

The City of Quincy's History and Heritage Initiative announces the first annual Quincy History Corps Volunteer Fair. The fair will take place on Thursday, June 13th from 6:30 to 8 p.m. at the Quincy Historical Society, 8 Adams St., Quincy.

The City of Presidents has a diverse and rich variety of historic sites that preserve and tell the stories of the community, from the lives and homes Adams, Quincy and Hancock families, to Quincy's granite and shipbuilding industries, and so much more.

Are you someone who loves Quincy and loves history? Why not put those passions together in support of Quincy's historic sites?

Come to the first annual Quincy History Corps Volunteer fair and speak with representatives from Adams National Historical Park, Dorothy Quincy Homestead, Quincy's Heart of the City Tour, Quincy Historical Society, Quincy Quarry and Granite Workers Museum, United First Parish Church, Church of the Presidents and USS Salem CA -139 to learn more about how you can share your passion for local history through volunteering.

For more information and questions email Bob Damon at historyandheritagequincy@gmail.com.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) A change of season reinvigorates the Lamb, helping to overcome the effects of a recent slower-paced period. This is a good time to restate your feelings for that certain someone.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You might not like using your authority to correct a workplace situation, but that's what being placed in charge is all about. Besides, you have people ready to lend support if need be.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Your creativity continues to run high and helps guide you to make some fine choices in the work you're doing. Keep the weekend free for those special people in your life.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Don't be surprised if you experience a sudden spurt of energy strong enough to pull you out of that recent period of indecision and put you back in charge of your own goals.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) This is a good time for Leos and Leonas to set new goals regarding health, educational choices and possible career moves. The plans you make now could be a blueprint for your future.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) You might have much to offer a potential employer, but it can all be overwhelmed by too many details. Let the facts about you speak for themselves without any embellishments.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) This is a good week to balance your responsibilities to your work-a-day world with your obligations to the people in your private life. Expect news that could lead to a change in plans.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) A changing attitude on the part of a once determined adversary could cause changes down the line. Be prepared to take advantage of an unexpected new opportunity.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) You'd be a truly wise Sagittarius to be skeptical about an offer that doesn't answer all your questions. Even a colleague's testimonial doesn't replace facts that aren't there.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) It's a good idea to avoid spending on unnecessary purchases this week in order to keep a money reserve against a possible upcoming (but, fortunately, temporary) shortfall.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) More information is what you should demand regarding that workplace situation that recently came to light. Don't be surprised at who might turn up as one of your supporters.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) You might still be in a "treading water" mode, but by midweek, a shift in your aspect favors taking a more active role in pushing for the changes you feel are necessary. Good luck.

BORN THIS WEEK: You exude a warm, caring attitude that comforts everyone who comes into your life.

HOLLYWOOD

by Tony Rizzo

HOLLYWOOD -- There could have been a season 13 and 14 of "The Big Bang Theory," but CBS overplayed its hand. At the beginning of season 11, CBS announced there would be only two more seasons of the hit show. Apparently, star Jim Parsons took them at their word. He returned to Broadway in "The Boys in the Band," and played Larry Simpson to Zac Efron's Ted Bundy in "Extremely Wicked, Shockingly Evil and Vile" for Netflix. By the time CBS decided to go for seasons 13 and 14, Parsons had moved on to other projects. Even though he still narrates "Young Sheldon," which is a big hit, he must have some major plans, because even the alleged $50 million he would have earned for two more seasons couldn't change his mind. His estimated net worth is $100 million ... Bazinga!

Mel Gibson is back in a big way. He's completed directing the sci-fi thriller "Boss Level," with Frank Grillo and Naomi Watts, and began filming "The Passion of the Christ: Resurrection," the sequel to "The Passion of the Christ" (the 2004 film that grossed $612 million). Jim Caviezel returns in the title role for an Easter 2020 release. But even more ambitious is Mel's plan to remake Sam Peckinpah's all-star 1969 classic "The Wild Bunch." So far he's roped in Michael Fassbender, Jamie Foxx and Peter Dinklage, late of "Game of Thrones."

Not long ago we told you that "Twilight" star Robert Pattinson needed a hit movie to make a comeback from a string of less than successful films. He may have found that vehicle in the dark black and white fantasy horror film "The Lighthouse," with Willem Dafoe, which was well-received at the Cannes Film Festival.

If that doesn't do the trick, he's also completed "The King," with Timothee Chalamet and Joel Edgerton, for Netflix; "Waiting for the Barbarians," with Johnny Depp and Mark Rylance; and "The Devil All the Time," with Riley Keough, Tom Holland and Sebastian Stan, also for Netflix. Now Pattinson's just signed to star with Michael Caine, Kenneth Branagh and Aaron Taylor-Johnson for director Christopher Nolan in "Tenet," an action epic revolving around the world of espionage. Nolan also wrote the screenplay. It's his first film since his epic Oscar nominee "Dunkirk."

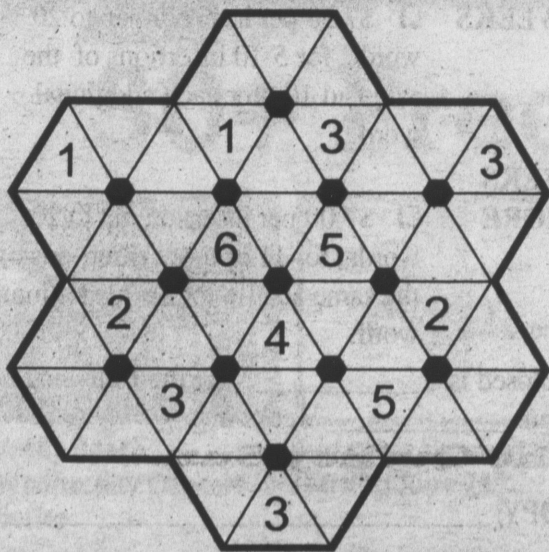

Not to be outdone, Chris Hemsworth -- riding the crest of "Avengers: Endgame," "Men in Black: International" (due June 14) and "Dhaka" for Netflix (which he also co-produced) -- is wrestling with Tiffany Haddish in the mismatched buddy/cop comedy "Down Under Cover," that gets them hilariously into all kinds of trouble. If Hemsworth thinks he was upstaged in "Endgame" ... just wait!

KOVELS' Antiques & Collecting

By Terry and Kim Kovel

Seashell Sofa -- "I've never seen one before, so it must be valuable!" is a common comment made by collectors. But rarity doesn't always add to the price. Fame, beauty, workmanship, even usefulness adds to the dollars paid for an unusual piece. A recent Skinner auction in Boston sold an 1840s-shaped sofa that was completely covered with shells -- not fabric -- as upholstery. The frame was made of wood and trimmed with rope. It probably was not a comfortable seat, but a unique conversation piece.

The sofa came from New Brunswick, Canada, likely from a seaside town. A talented original artist painted the wood red, then added mussel, clam, scallop, cockle, quahog, snail, starfish and other shells as well as pottery shards. The seat was covered in net. The sofa's price was estimated at under $2,500, but it sold for $4,613. No doubt the buyer liked the ocean and had an independent taste in furniture.

Q: I'm looking for information about a pair of salt and pepper shakers marked "Quaker Silver" and "506." There also is an emblem of a Quaker on the bottom. Can you give me an estimate of value?

A: The Quaker Silver Co. Inc. was in business in North Attleboro, Massachusetts, by 1926. It made sterling silver, silver plate and pewter hollowware. The company was bought by Gorham in 1959. Salt and pepper shakers marked "506" are made of pewter. They usually sell for $15 to $20.

STICKELERS

In a fictitious football season, Clinton beat Jefferson 14 to 7. Jefferson beat Wilson 21 to 3. Adams beat Clinton 35 to 21. Based on these scores alone, if Adams were to play Wilson, who would win and by how many points?

- 1) Adams wins by 14 points.
- 2) Wilson wins by 14 points.
- 3) Adams wins by 39 points.
- 4) Wilson wins by 39 points.
- 5) The game would end in a tie.

Strange BUT TRUE

* It was Academy Award-nominated actress and comedian Lily Tomlin who made the following observation: "Ninety-eight percent of the adults in this country are decent, hard-working, honest Americans. It's the other lousy 2 percent that get all the publicity. But then -- we elected them."

* You are almost certainly aware of the fact that the Impressionist painter Claude Monet is famous for his paintings of water lilies. However, you may not be aware of the fact that he painted more than 300 pictures of water lilies. The same water lilies, in fact -- and they can be seen today in a pond behind his house.

* Those who study such things say that people during the Stone Age used shells and even shark teeth to shave.

* If you think about it, you'll realize that an old-fashioned hourglass has more moving parts than the most expensive luxury watch on the market today.

* Researchers conducting a study at the University of California have found that men are more likely than women to use shortcuts.

* During the 19th century, first lady Lucy Hayes, wife of Rutherford B. Hayes, the 19th president of the United States, was widely known as "Lemonade Lucy." It seems she was an ardent supporter of temperance and therefore didn't allow alcohol to be served in the White House during her husband's four years in office.

* For reasons that are still not clear, in the 15th century in Florence, Italy, women were banned from wearing buttons.

Thought for the Day: "You wouldn't worry so much about what others think of you if you realized how seldom they do." -- Eleanor Roosevelt

Now here's a tip!

by Jo Ann Derson

* "Every time I cook bacon in a frying pan it's always a greasy mess. My roommate totally blew my mind when she put hers in the oven. Try it out at 400 F and be astonished. No mess!" -- P.A. in Florida

* If your clothes or towels have a musty odor, it may be time to give your washing machine a freshener. The inside of your washer is often wet or damp, which can lead to mildew buildup in the machine as well as the hoses. Front-loading machines may have mildew buildup on the gasket. There are products you can buy for just this purpose, but if you want to try a DIY washing machine mix, simply add some baking soda to the machine and use it for a little scrub action. Then add 2 cups of white vinegar and run on a hot cycle with no clothes.

* Ever think that jeans and pants take up way too much space folded in drawers? Y.R. from Washington says that to save space, she hangs her pants and jeans on S hooks in her closet.

* Want to make fun and interesting pancakes shapes for special occasions or to spice up everyday breakfast? Use metal cookie cutters to easily achieve super-fun shapes. Simply spray pan and inside of the cookie cutter with a non-stick cooking spray and slowly add batter to the inside. Use tongs to flip when stable.

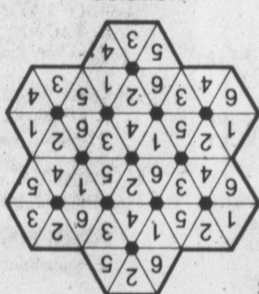

* "My chargers and cables always end up tangled and messy looking. My problem was completely solved when I took a few binder clips and threaded the cords through the metal 'wings,' which help them stay put. Now I keep a cord by my bedside table and my desk so it's convenient to charge wherever I am sitting." -- F.C. in North Carolina

Sticklers Answer

If Clinton were to play Wilson, the team would win by 25 (the 7 points they beat Jefferson by plus the 18 points Jefferson beat Wilson by equals 25). But Adams beat Clinton by 14, so Adams would beat Wilson by 25 plus the 14 they beat Clinton by 25 + 14 = 39 points.

Friends Of Wollaston Beach Host Annual Meeting

The Friends of Wollaston Beach recently held its annual meeting at the Kennedy Center.

The meeting began with an overview of the Metropolitan Beaches Commission by Commission member, Doug Gutro.

Missy Walker of whales.org then gave a presentation of her group's efforts to promote marine conservation and boater education.

Officers were elected for the coming year:

Maureen Mazrimas, president/treasurer; George Kober, vice president; and Bob Verney, secretary.

FWB acknowledged the many companies and individuals that helped FWB fulfill its mission. Certificates of Appreciation were given to City of Quincy's Kennedy Senior Center; Eastern Nazarene College, North Quincy High School Jr. ROTC, Stop & Shop, Tony's, and Quincy Mutual Insurance.

Special recognition was given to the Quincy Legislative delegation, Reps. Bruce Ayers, Tackey Chan and Ron Mariano, and Sen. John Keenan. Mazrimas noted that "while Reps. Ayers, Chan and Mariano are active in all things Wollaston Beach, FWB is particularly grateful to them for their help in honoring the memory of FWB's late vice president, Dick Herbert. Dick was a founding member of FWB and a real cheerleader for the beach. We were blessed to have Dick in our ranks and grateful to the Quincy delegation for recognizing the value of Dick's contributions."

FWB's "Friend of the Year" is Master Sgt. John Delorenzo for providing his cadets for cleanups and the annual Kids' Fest. His leadership and participation in FWB events is unparalleled. Unfortunately, the No. Quincy High School Jr. ROTC and their leaders were on a field trip and were unable to attend the Annual Meeting.

Mazrimas also acknowledged the contribution of Save the Harbor/Save the Bay and a local family foundation for providing grants to enable the group to plan numerous family-friendly events on the beach at no charge. She also acknowledged the commitment of DCR (Department of Conservation and Recreation) in providing the permits to hold these events – and for their help with the proper disposal of all the trash collected from the beach.

This year's "Spirit" recipient is Bruce Ayers. Mazrimas was quick to point out that the Award was given to Bruce as a private citizen. "Bruce exemplifies what FWB is all about. He is actively involved in the group and participates in all of its events from meetings to cleanups, to Tot Lot events, Kids' Fest and the Ice Bucket challenge. We are certainly grateful for his service at the State House, but value his day-to-day commitment to the Beach." The meeting ended with light refreshments and the awarding of door prizes.

Mazrimas encouraged all in attendance to get involved whether for cleanups, helping at Kids' Fest and Tot Lot events, or participating on committees. "Like the Marines, we're 'looking for a few good men and women' to help out. It is not a huge commitment of time, and additional volunteers would enable us to do more."

She encouraged people to follow FWB on Facebook and www.wollastonbeach.org.

Happy Father's Day

God took the strength of a mountain,
The majesty of a tree,
The warmth of a summer sun,
The calm of a quiet sea,
The generous soul of nature,
The comforting arm of night,
The wisdom of the ages,
The power of the eagle's flight,
The joy of a morning in spring,
The faith of a mustard seed,
The patience of eternity,
The depth of a family need,
Then God combined these qualities,
When there was nothing more to add,
He knew his masterpiece was complete
And so, he called it...Dad.
